First Alaskan oil ends pipe journey

VALDEZ, Alaska (AP) — Sirens wailed, firecrackers snapped, horns honked, cheers erupted in bars. All celebrated the first gush of Alaska's black bounty of crude oil from the end of the trans+Alaska pipeline.

A journey of 38½ days — and a struggle of nine years — ended with arrival of oil from above the Arctic Circle at the line's southern terminus here. The North Slope crude officially ended its pipe journey at 11:02 p.m. Alaskan time (4:02 a.m. EDT).

Like the proud father of a newborn child, Alyeska Pipeline Service Co. President William Darch, contacted at his Anchorage home, bragged about the 800-mile, $7.7 billion pipeline. And he applauded Alaskans who saw the controversial project through to its first delivery.

"It even took dynamite and shrugged it off!" enthused Darch, referring to a sabotage attempt detected earlier this week.

Oil flowed immediately into storage tanks at the $1 billion oil handling facility. An Atlantic Richfield supertanker, the 120,000-ton ARCO Juneau, will take oil to the west coast after several days.

The journey of 38 days, 12 hours and 56 minutes ended a trouble-plagued maiden run of oil through the line. Problems included an explosion that killed one man and destroyed a pump station, reducing the 48-inch line's capacity by onethird.

It also ended a turbulent period of energy history in which the forces of development clashed with conservationists in a struggle over the rich Prudhoe Bay oil fields — the nation's largest pool of oil, discovered in 1968.

The crude will be the first shipments from what is estimated to be a nine billion barrel field at Prudhoe Bay along the Arctic Ocean. In the pipeline's present configuration, Alyeska hopes to deliver 800,000 barrels a day to Valdez.

The pipeline startup ordeal, which began June 20 at Prudhoe Bay, was as frustrating for Alyeska as was construction of the line, the largest privately financed construction project in history.

Major and minor shutdowns added 14 days to the time it took to move the heated oil from fields north of the Arctic Circle to Valdez, an ice-free port. Pump Station No. 8 southeast of Fairbanks was destroyed in an explosion, the line suffered its first sabotage attempt and one mishap spewed 42,000 gallons of oil onto the tundra.

Construction began in 1974 only after years of haggling with environmentalists over the necessity and desirability of the project.

But Alyeska notes with pride that it is meeting its 3-year-old, self-imposed Aug. 1 deadline for completion of the line and movement of the oil.

Richard Rabbitt found guilty on all 15 counts

ST.LOUIS (AP) — A U.S. District Court jury has convicted former Missouri House Speaker Richard J. Rabbitt on all 15 counts of a federal indictment which accused him of accepting kickbacks and peddling his influence as one of state's most powerful politicians.

Rabbitt was convicted Thursday in the court of Judge John F. Nangle, who set Aug. 16 for sentencing. Rabbitt faces up to 135 years in prison and fines of up to $91,000.

The verdict came nearly six hours after the case went to the jury of eight men and four women. After the jury returned the foreman listed the counts and said "guilty" each time.

Rabbitt had no comment for newsmen as he, his wife Teresa and three of their six children went out the back door of the courtroom and down a freight elevator.

Defense attorney Mortimer A. Rosecan indicated that the verdict would be appealed.

The indictment charged that between 1967 and 1976, while serving as a state representative, House majority floor leader and House speaker, Rabbitt extorted $12,300 from Berger Field Hurley Architects, Inc. and took a large share of $20,-000 paid to attorney-lobbyist John D. Connaghan by the Greater St. Louis Automobile Dealers Association.

He was also convicted of attempting to extort law firm business from the Missouri Bus and Truck Association.

Members of the architectural firm testified under immunity from prosecution that an agreement had been made in which Rabbitt would receive 10 per cent of the fees they received from state work that he helped them obtain.

Rabbitt denied the charge, saying that any money he or his law firm received from the architects was for legal services performed for them.

He also denied receiving any part of the $20,000 paid to Connaghan by the car dealers association for work they wanted done in support of a tax relief bill, but said his law firm had received some money from Connaghan in referral fees for legal work sent to him.

Rosecan chalked off the attempted extortion charge of bus and truck association lobbyist George Burrus as an angry gesture made because Rabbitt gave Burrus the brushoff when he asked about the progress of a bill which would allow heavier trucks on Missouri highways.

Burrus had testified that when he asked Rabbitt, who he said had earlier hinted that his firm needed additional business, why the bill was not making much progress Rabbitt told him, "because I haven't gotten any law business" from association members.

Rosecan asked the jury to send Rabbitt "back to the arms of his family and let him go on with his career."

SeMo to seek state funding for Bootheel Service Center

CAPE GIRARDEAU -- Southeast Missouri State University will seek state funding for a proposed Educational Service Center serving six Bootheel counties, the university's Board of Regents decided Thursday.

The board voted to allow university officials to prepare a "special project budget request" of not more than $100,000 to start up the center in the fall of 1978.

Dr. David Strand, vice president of institutional development, said about 85 per cent of the request would be for personal services, seven per cent for equipment purchase and repair, and eight per cent for operations.

Permission to investigate the establishment of an instructional center to serve the counties of Dunklin, Mississippi, New Madrid, Scott, Stoddard, and Pemiscot was obtained from the regents by Southeast Missouri State administrators last September. In the months that followed, the need for increased higher education opportunities in that area was documented and it was determined that citizens of the six counties in large measure cupported the concept.

Possible sites for the proposed center were also narrowed to three -- Kennett, Malden, and New Madrid. No final decision has been made.

The service center would schedule late afternoon and evening classes, mostly at the freshman and sophomore levels, but a few graduate courses might also be offered.

Throughout the preliminary planning university officials have cautioned that state funding must be acquired before the center can become a reality, and Southeast Missouri State President Robert Leestamper acknowledged again Thursday that "this may not be easy."

But Dr. Leestamper said the university is committed and that he wants to make the effort, especially in view of the support of the plan on the part of the residents of the area.

The funding proposal first goes to the Coordinating Board for Higher Education. If it is approved by the CBHE, it then goes to the governor. It must be finally approved by both houses of the General Assembly.

Southeast Missouri State's regents were also brought up-to-date Thursday on traffic and parking developments on the campus, aand they received progress reports on various capital improvement and renovation projects.

Dr. A.R. Meyer, vice president for administrative services, reported that it will be October before two new parking lots to handle 1300 vehicles will be completed.

It will be necessary for students to continue to park on city streets near the campus until the new lots are completed, he said. But, after completion, all students will be required to park in assigned lots, thus relieving the city streets of much congestion.

Dr. Meyer noted that the university will install parking meters around most women's residence halls, in a lot across from the University Center, and along a street west of Kent Library in an effort to encourage "turnover" of parking.

The vice president also asked the regents if there were strong objections to installing parking meters along portions of Normal Ave. and limiting parking to one side of each lane, saying both actions were planned after the new lots are opened. Normal is a divided boulevard which runs in front of Academic Hall, the university's administration building.

No board members voiced any objections and one, Harry L. Lottes of Perryville, said he had talked with several students in his hometown and they supported the idea.

Convalescent Center announces expansion

George Stevens administrator of the Sikeston Convalescent Center, 103 Kennedy Drive, has announced plans for the expansion of the facility.

The expansion will provide space for the care of up to 40 more skilled-care residents bringing the total to 160 skilled care beds.

It will also increase the number of persons employed at the center from about 90 persons to more than 100. The Poplar Bluff firm of Donallen and Porterfield, architects, will draw up the plans for the expansion which should be completed by early spring of 1978.

The Convalescent Center opened Sept. 24,1973 as the only skilled-care facility in this area, Stevens said. A skilled care facility has nurses on duty 24 hours a day, seven days a week, in addition to supporting staff. It also has a director of nursing on duty each day.

A physician serves as medical director and the center has consultants for occupationsl speech and physical therapy, as well as a dietician, social worker and psychologist.

Elementary pre-enrollment scheduled

Parents of elementary students in Kindergarten through fifth grade, who are new residents of the Sikeston R-6 District and whose children were not enrolled in Sikeston schools prior to the closing day of school last May, should pre-enroll their children during the week of Aug. 8-12 at the elementary school or kindergarten center nearest their homes between 8 a.m. and 4:30 p.m.

School officials at each school will provide parents with enrollment and other information, which may include: The school to which the child has been assigned; tentative bus information; school lunch information; basic school supplies (pencils, crayons, etc.) which each student will need; and immunizations and birth data required for enrollment.

Should overcrowded conditions develop in any building, it may be necessary to assign some students to classrooms in other attendance areas. No serious over-crowding is anticipated in any elementary school at this time.

New kindergarten students in the Sikeston area should enrol at the kindergarten center at the Airport site and Morehouse students at the Morehouse School office during the week of Aug. 8-12. Kindergarten students must be five years of age before Oct. 1. Parents should bring a birth certificate and immunization record of their children when enrolling them in school. A board of education policy requires that all students must have a full year of approved kindergarten attendance before entering the first grade. Parents of kindergarten students who did not enroll their five-year olds in kindergarten during the pre-enrollment session held last May are urged to do so during the week of Aug. 8-12, so classes, materials and transportation can be organized for the opening of school. The first day of school for all students will be Wednesday, Aug. 24. Call the school in your attendance area or the Board of Education Office for further information.

THE CATCH IN 'CITIZENS'S MAIL'

If the independent Postal Rate Commission seconds the motion of the board of governors of the U.S. Postal Service, the ordinary person will get at least a little relief from the continually rising cost of everything.

This would be in the form of a special 13-cent "citizens' rate" stamp for personal, nonbusiness communications.

The board, acting on a recommendation of President Carter, approved creation of the new category as part of an overall 22 per cent increase in all mail rates.

Regular first class mail, now 13 cents for the first ounce, would go up to 16 cents, for example. Citizens' mail would be a kind of subcategory of first class with lower priority. (But postal officials say citizens' rate users wouldn't notice any difference in service.)

Don't start counting your pennies just yet, however. The commission has 10 months to act on the proposal, so it would not go into effect before May of 1978.

Pennies are important, of course, to those who stand to be the major beneficiaries of the citizens' rate -- older people on restricted incomes, many of whom depend heavily on the Postal Service for contact with the world.

But aside from them -- and the greeting card industry -- it's difficult to see reason for anyone getting wildly enthusiastic over the prospect of citizens' mail.

For one thing, it perpetuates the myth that when a company's cost of doing business rises, the company pays the cost. The proposed three-cent hike for first class business mail, from 13 to 16 cents, will inevitably be passed on to the citizen-consumer.

It is also another example of tinkering with details while the Postal Service's fundamental problem -- an inefficient, oversized and highly unionized work force -- remains unchanged.

In short, citizens' rate mail is a nice gesture, but that's about all it amounts to.

HOTBED OF PATRIOTISM

Patriotism must run high in Pettis County. This is one conclusion to be drawn from the fact that our county ranked at the top in the state in terms of bicentennial participation. There are 114 counties in Missouri.

Pettis shared with Lewis County the distinction of having all of its incorporated municipalities designated official bicentennial cities. This status could be earned only through performing bicentennial-related projects that met certain criteria, of which there were several undertaken in the county.

We trust the tricentennial planners will be so energetic.

The Soviets have a custom of inviting foreign diplomats to say a few words over Russian television each year on their respective national days.

It sounds like a nice custom. Unfortunately, U. S. Ambassador Malcolm Toon was barred from speaking to the Russian people this July 4th because he refused to delete one sentence from his planned address. The sentence was:

"Americans will continue to state publicly their belief in human rights and their hope that violations of these rights wherever they occur will end."

To forbid such an innocuous statement from being broadcast reveals the insecurity of Soviet bosses after nearly 60 years in power. The words "human rights" make them jump. How sad.

Sen, McGovern, and some others, are urging resumption of trade with Cuba.

To do so would benefit the Russians more than it would us.

Russia adopted Cuba as a protege and in an effort to infiltrate and take over this continent and South America. It is sustaining the Cuban economy at great extra expense, and would like to get rid of that expense so it can spend more on armaments and be in a stronger position to take over Central and South American nations and eventually the United States. It would like nothing better than for us to relieve it of some of the financial pressure it feels from taking care of Cuba and Castro.

By full trading with Cuba, we'd actually be aiding the Russians, not ourselves.

A television rating service discovered the inmates of a prison watched only daytime programs. One of the investigators asked the prisoners why they never watched any of the evening shows. "That's simple," explained one. "The lights go out at 8:30."

"But why do you watch it during the daytime?"

The prisoner shrugged. "I guess we thought it was part of the punishment," he replied.

ENERGY, INDUSTRY AND THE ECONOMY

Most experts agree that U.S. industry (which consumes 40 per cent of energy production) will not have available the fuel it must have to operate in years to come(and to provide jobs for a growing work force and goods for our growing demands) unless steps are taken now to assure a greater supply.

Yet, government policies over the years have worked to hamper the production and development of new energy sources at every turn—through excessive regulation of production, counterproductive price controls on domestic oil and natural gas and governmental decree that one energy source is "good" while another is "bad."

Industry's top spokesman, Chairman R. Heath Larry of the National Association of Manufacturers, recently commented: "The most effective method for both increasing energy supply to be set in a market free of government controls."

We feel that Washington's economic planners would do well to make this the basic premise of all plans to meet the energy challenge.

Common Situs Rejected

The House of Representatives' defeat of the common situs picketing bill was a victory of the American people as a whole over the bosses of construction workers' unions.

Labor had sought passage of this bill so that any one union on a construction project could shut down the entire project by picketing all the contractors on the job, even though only one of the contractors was involved in the labor dispute.

The labor bosses wanted this authority for total picketing so that they could bring contractors to their knees and also force unionization of workers on construction projects. Such power would be totally unjustified and would add to construction costs, but it had been taken for granted by most people that the current labor-oriented Congress would approve the bill.

So it was a deeply gratifying surprise when the House turned down the measure Wednesday night by a vote of 217-to-205.

Technically, the House could still approve common situs picketing during this session if a bill now in the Senate should be approved there and sent to the House. But most observers believe the chances are that this will not happen.

There is no doubt that the defeat of the bill acted on Wednesday night can be attributed largely to the superb lobbying efforts of various business associations and the National Right to Work Committee, which pointed out to the congressmen the pitfalls in the comon situs bill. And not only is the victory on this measure deeply heartening to those who believe in fair play in the matter of labor relations, it also provides hope that other extreme and unjustified labor goals can be beaten in this Congress. Foremost among those is the attempt whichwill be made to kill state right-to-work laws that prohibit labor contracts requiring compulsory union membership.

No reasonable person, in labor or management, wants to deny unions sufficient powers necessary to represent fairly the interests of union members. But society as a whole suffers when the labor-management balance shifts too far in either direction, and the legalization of common situs picketing would have given added and unjustified power to construction unions to use against management, the public and non-union workers.

Violence In The Home

Unfortunately, not all the violence in the home occurs on television. In fact, a ringside seat at home might be in a lot of places other than in front of the television screen.

Of course, what we're talking about is the growing number of wife beating and child abuse cases reported daily by the news media and law enforcement officials. And truthfully, the parent who watches the "boob tube" hour after hour could also rightfully be cited for child neglect.

According to researchers with the Universities of Rhode Island and New Hampshire, reporting the results of one of the first major studies of violence in the home, each year 1.2 million to 1.7 million children are kicked, bitten or punched by their parents, 460,000 to 750,000 are "beaten up" and 46,000 are attacked with guns and knives.

As for violence between husbands and wives, 75. million couples probably experience a "violent episode"—anything from a slap to murder— in a given year, the researchers reported.

Oddly enough, the greatest incidence of violence occurs between brothers and sisters. During the survey year, 52 per cent of the children in the families interviewed by the researchers were reported to have punched, bitten, kicked or beaten up their "playmates."

The survey pointed out another interesting fact. Well-educated families seem to be just as violence prone as less educated ones. There seems to be no discrimination at all when it comes to non-television violence in the home.

A survey of this nature paints an ugly picture of violence in the home, and unlike television, this violence is very, very real. And don't kid yourself-it's happening right here in Marshall and Saline County too.

Just recently you've been reading and hearing quite a bit about two local organizations who are concerned about the growing problems of child abuse, neglect and violence. Project Youth and the establishment of a residential trestment facility at the Blosser Home are two groups who are making attempts to turn the situation around.

Both organizations are worthy of your consideration. We hope that when you are asked for monetary support or individual help you will remember that violence in the home and neglect of our youths is a very real problem that must be solved.

You can also always turn off the television set, but it's harder and takes longer to curb violence in real life.

Why Knock Spying?

WASHINGTON — There's profitable politics in spearing the CIA's poltergeists -- otherwise known as "spooks" or station chiefs.

Any Senator can come along and by artificial insemination of the Select Committee on Intelligence sprout subcommittees and investigate the "Agency" or "the company," demoralize and scandalize its name and especially its covert operations.

This season Sen. Birch Bayh has replaced Sen. Frank Church as spy hunter and the CIA is purging itself in advance of the onslaught.

So, since the trial of a West Coast spy, Andrew Dalton Lee, is over and the newest "exposure" of the CIA is center stage, it's time for an inside view and defense of covert operations.

I refer here to the Agency's infiltration of Australian unions.

This was disclosed during the trial of spy Andrew Lee who just got life for selling thousands of secret CIA documents to KGB agents at the Soviet's huge Embassy in Mexico. It is true that the CIA seeped into the affiliates of the Australian Council of Trade Unions.

And why not? The 3,000-member Communist Party of Australia (CPA) got there long before the "company" did. The CPA's leaders, according to authoritative intelligence, recognized inside the world's labor movements are powerful forces in the organized working "class" in the huge down-under continent.

For example, prominent members and allies of the CPA are among the top leaders of the strategically powerful Amalgamated Metals Workers and Shipwrights Union, the Seamen's Union of Australia and the Building Employes of Australia. And radically "left wing" is the key Waterside Workers Federation. Also on the "away left" is the Transport Workers Union.

Thus, the Communists and the comrades of comrades, and their fellow travelers can -- and most definitely have -- isolate the vast island continent from all foreign air and ocean transport. What does one then use -- the Kon-Tiki?

Furthermore, these unions have consistently been bitterly anti-U.S. -- whether it came to harassing Frankie Sinatra, which isn't exactly a matter of national security, or refusing to handle American or U.S.-bound freighters for political reasons.

But the left-wing unions haven't confined themselves to crippling American cargo carriers from time to time. Back in May 1973, Aussie labor leader Robert Hawke, who'll deny any KGB or Communist motivation, called on the Brussels-based International Confederation of Free Trade Unions to boycott all French aircraft, ships, goods and communications. This was Hawke's way of protesting France's nuclear testing in the South Pacific.

And what Bob Hawke calls for is significant because he's the powerful chief of the national Australian Labor Council (counterpart there of the AFL-CIO).

Two months later the Waterside Workers Federation's longshoremen tied up all American flagships at the big Melbourne port to "protest" U.S. bombing in Southeast Asia.

Thus the big left-wing unions which are the dominating influences in Australian central labor organization, and therefore in the Australian labor party, matched their industrial job action with their national and international political philosophies. Note please, that the accumulation of union power in a trade echelon leads to power in the national labor council. Automatically this in turn is the "mainstay" of the Labor Party -- which is militantly socialist to mention the least of its hangups, most of which are reflected in a hatred for American capitalism.

The Labor Party governed Australia for years. It hacked the U.S. whenever it could. In 1972, for example, it cut off large-scale uranium mining despite the need for this ore across the world.

Recently, however, some months after the voters dumped the Labor Party from office, Prime Minister Malcom Fraser, whose "Liberal Party" is actually conservative and right-of-center, decided to resume uranium mining. This the left-wing unions immediately took as a personal insult.

Waterside workers boycotted American ships again. There were demonstrations on the docks. Furthermore, the left-wingers voted to ban permanently any ship which carried uranium, even if the freighter came in seeking to load beef and automobile parts.

There is lots more of this politicized industrial action -- some of it involving the construction of an American space research and satellite receiving station for example.

Obviously, some force had to counterbalance the Soviet's infiltration of the crucial Australian labor movement -- which has many anti-Communists in it. Certainly America's global security -- especially in that critical part of the world -- was and is involved.

So the CIA infiltrated. Spook for spook. It's the name of the game.

The World War II Office of Strategic Services (OSS) under Franklin Roosevelt and Harry Truman constantly infiltrated foreign unions -- to fight the Nazis and the Communists.

To profit politically by exposing the intelligence poltergeists is like sending the ball team in without a catcher. You lose the ball and the game.

WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

Navy to Get 12 More A-7s Thanks to Capitol's Texans

by Jack Anderson and Les Whitten

WASHINGTON -- The Navy will get a dozen more A-7E attack planes than it requested -- not because of any urgent military need but because the planes will be constructed in Texas. They will cost the taxpayers, by the way, a whopping $100 million which President Carter doesn't want to spend.

Texas happens to be blessed, thanks to a seniority system that advances congressmen who keep getting re-elected, with a powerful congressional delegation. The congressmen from Texas have the power, as they have just demonstrated, to overrule the president when he tries to cut down on federal spending in the Lone Star State.

Carter is trying in the White House to make ends meet. He sent his budget trimmers to confer with the Navy about possible cutbacks. They agreed that the Navy could get along without those carrier-based, computerized A-7Es. So the president excised them from the budget, leaving only $21 million to keep the A-7E program going.

The Texas legislators are, of course, for God, country and economy, but they favor the economies in someone else's state. The test is not whether the weapon is worth the cost but whether its production will benefit their Texas constituency.

The A-7E warplanes are supposed to be built by LTV Corporation in Fort Worth, Texas. The Carter cut, therefore, aroused Rep. Dale Milford, D.-Texas, who has a lot of constituents in Ft. Worth. He enlisted House Democratic leader Jim Wright, whose home district also reaches into Ft. Worth. Then Rep. George Mahon, D.-Texas, the powerful House Appropriations chairman, joined the A-7E crusade.

This awesome trio, with help from other Texas congressmen, quickly restored funds for six planes over White House opposition. On the Senate side, Sen. John Tower, R.-Texas, a power on the Armed Services Committee, persuaded his colleagues to purchase six more planes, making an even dozen.

The Texans carried out their caper so skillfully, in fact, that there is little chance of a presidential veto. To knock the extra $100 million out of the budget, Carter would probably have to kill the entire appropriations bill for the Pentagon.

Escape From Bangkok: Our May 9, 1977, column apparently has driven Thailand's top narcotics trafficker into the hills. We identified him from secret intelligence reports as Chang Kai-cheng, a man of many tentacles, who operates hotels, trucks and shops.

But his biggest business, according to an intelligence document, is running "the largest heroin distribution organization in Thailand," with "narcotics connections in Holland, Singapore, Malaysia and Hong Kong." Much of the heroin he smuggles, of course, winds up in the back alleys of America.

We obtained his secret telephone numbers and placed a trans-Pacific telephone call to the startled Chang Kai-cheng in his Bangkok hideaway. Speaking through an interpreter, we got Chang to confirm facts we had learned about his background. But he stopped cold when we brought up the subject of narcotics. He claimed not to know what we were talking about.

Now information has reached House Narcotics Chairman Lester Wolff, D.-N.Y., that Thai authorities were spurred into action by our column and that the imperiled Chang fled Bangkok. According to Wolff, the Thai police discovered 348 pounds of heroin, morphine and opium in Chang's palatial dwelling.

Nuclear Monopoly: Behind the scenes of the energy crisis, a few giant corporations are playing a dangerous game of monopoly. They are pulling financial strings to gain a stranglehold on the most likely sources of energy.

We are indebted to Ralph Nader's Critical Mass Energy Project, which has been probing the corporate maze. Here are their confidential findings:

A tight corporate phalanx, spearheaded by a few of the nation's largest oil companies, has quietly bought up controlling interests in nearly every phase of the nuclear power industry.

A startling 70 per cent of the nation's uranium reserves, for example, are controlled by only seven companies. Five of them are giant oil companies: Atlantic Richfield, Exxon, Getty, Gulf and Kerr-McGee. All told, 20 of the top 25 oil companies have investments in the nation's uranium reserves.

Four of the five companies that dominate the recycling, or "reprocessing," of radioactive fuel are also oil companies. Oil barons also control a complicated process called "milling," which purifies radioactive uranium for later use in a reactor. The top five milling companies have a solid hold on 55 per cent of the market. Four are owned by oil interests: Anaconda, Continental, Exxon and Kerr-McGee.

Two firms, Westinghouse Electric and General Electric, control a shocking 70 per cent of all U.S. nuclear reactor sales. With Babcock and Wilcox and Combustion Engineering, they dominate 98 per cent of the market.

It has already been widely reported that the oil companies have been moving into the natural gas and coal industries. The concentrations, however, are less formidable than in the nuclear power industry. The top four firms producing oil and coal hold 31 per cent of the market. In natural gas, the figure is about 25 per cent.

Footnote: A nuclear industry spokesman explained that nuclear power is a "high risk venture." He also told us: "Concentration is not an unknown thing. There are just so many companies that can make a living on a given sector of the nuclear industry."

THE CATCH IN 'CITIZENS'S MAIL'

If the independent Postal Rate Commission seconds the motion of the board of governors of the U.S. Postal Service, the ordinary person will get at least a little relief from the continually rising cost of everything.

This would be in the form of a special 13-cent "citizens' rate" stamp for personal, nonbusiness communications.

The board, acting on a recommendation of President Carter, approved creation of the new category as part of an overall 22 per cent increase in all mail rates.

Regular first class mail, now 13 cents for the first ounce, would go up to 16 cents, for example. Citizens' mail would be a kind of subcategory of first class with lower priority. (But postal officials say citizens' rate users wouldn't notice any difference in service.)

Don't start counting your pennies just yet, however. The commission has 10 months to act on the proposal, so it would not go into effect before May of 1978.

Pennies are important, of course, to those who stand to be the major beneficiaries of the citizens' rate -- older people on restricted incomes, many of whom depend heavily on the Postal Service for contact with the world.

But aside from them -- and the greeting card industry -- it's difficult to see reason for anyone getting wildly enthusiastic over the prospect of citizens' mail.

For one thing, it perpetuates the myth that when a company's cost of doing business rises, the company pays the cost. The proposed three-cent hike for first class business mail, from 13 to 16 cents, will inevitably be passed on to the citizen-consumer.

It is also another example of tinkering with details while the Postal Service's fundamental problem -- an inefficient, oversized and highly unionized work force -- remains unchanged.

In short, citizens' rate mail is a nice gesture, but that's about all it amounts to.

HOTBED OF PATRIOTISM

Patriotism must run high in Pettis County. This is one conclusion to be drawn from the fact that our county ranked at the top in the state in terms of bicentennial participation. There are 114 counties in Missouri.

Pettis shared with Lewis County the distinction of having all of its incorporated municipalities designated official bicentennial cities. This status could be earned only through performing bicentennial-related projects that met certain criteria, of which there were several undertaken in the county.

We trust the tricentennial planners will be so energetic.

The Soviets have a custom of inviting foreign diplomats to say a few words over Russian television each year on their respective national days.

It sounds like a nice custom. Unfortunately, U. S. Ambassador Malcolm Toon was barred from speaking to the Russian people this July 4th because he refused to delete one sentence from his planned address. The sentence was:

"Americans will continue to state publicly their belief in human rights and their hope that violations of these rights wherever they occur will end."

To forbid such an innocuous statement from being broadcast reveals the insecurity of Soviet bosses after nearly 60 years in power. The words "human rights" make them jump. How sad.

Latest to come under suspicion by them is pork, in which traces of undersirable sulfa have been found in one out of ten samples. As a result there may come a ban on certain pork products.

Sometimes we think those who make a business of trying to "protect" us go too far, as most people believe they have done in the case of saccaharin and several other products.

And should President Carter's plan for a new bureau to protect consumers become af federal law, we can expect more of the same

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

Why Knock Spying?

Any Senator can come along and by artificial insemination of the Select Committee on Intelligence sprout subcommittees and investigate the "Agency" or "the company," demoralize and scandalize its name and especially its covert operations.

This season Sen. Birch Bayh has replaced Sen. Frank Church as spy hunter and the CIA is purging itself in advance of the onslaught.

So, since the trial of a West Coast spy, Andrew Dalton Lee, is over and the newest "exposure" of the CIA is center stage, it's time for an inside view and defense of covert operations.

I refer here to the Agency's infiltration of Australian unions.

This was disclosed during the trial of spy Andrew Lee who just got life for selling thousands of secret CIA documents to KGB agents at the Soviet's huge Embassy in Mexico. It is true that the CIA seeped into the affiliates of the Australian Council of Trade Unions.

And why not? The 3,000-member Communist Party of Australia (CPA) got there long before the "company" did. The CPA's leaders, according to authoritative intelligence, recognized inside the world's labor movements are powerful forces in the organized working "class" in the huge down-under continent.

For example, prominent members and allies of the CPA are among the top leaders of the strategically powerful Amalgamated Metals Workers and Shipwrights Union, the Seamen's Union of Australia and the Building Employes of Australia. And radically "left wing" is the key Waterside Workers Federation. Also on the "away left" is the Transport Workers Union.

Thus, the Communists and the comrades of comrades, and their fellow travelers can -- and most definitely have -- isolate the vast island continent from all foreign air and ocean transport. What does one then use -- the Kon-Tiki?

Furthermore, these unions have consistently been bitterly anti-U.S. -- whether it came to harassing Frankie Sinatra, which isn't exactly a matter of national security, or refusing to handle American or U.S.-bound freighters for political reasons.

But the left-wing unions haven't confined themselves to crippling American cargo carriers from time to time. Back in May 1973, Aussie labor leader Robert Hawke, who'll deny any KGB or Communist motivation, called on the Brussels-based International Confederation of Free Trade Unions to boycott all French aircraft, ships, goods and communications. This was Hawke's way of protesting France's nuclear testing in the South Pacific.

And what Bob Hawke calls for is significant because he's the powerful chief of the national Australian Labor Council (counterpart there of the AFL-CIO).

Two months later the Waterside Workers Federation's longshoremen tied up all American flagships at the big Melbourne port to "protest" U.S. bombing in Southeast Asia.

Thus the big left-wing unions which are the dominating influences in Australian central labor organization, and therefore in the Australian labor party, matched their industrial job action with their national and international political philosophies. Note please, that the accumulation of union power in a trade echelon leads to power in the national labor council. Automatically this in turn is the "mainstay" of the Labor Party -- which is militantly socialist to mention the least of its hangups, most of which are reflected in a hatred for American capitalism.

The Labor Party governed Australia for years. It hacked the U.S. whenever it could. In 1972, for example, it cut off large-scale uranium mining despite the need for this ore across the world.

Waterside workers boycotted American ships again. There were demonstrations on the docks. Furthermore, the left-wingers voted to ban permanently any ship which carried uranium, even if the freighter came in seeking to load beef and automobile parts.

There is lots more of this politicized industrial action -- some of it involving the construction of an American space research and satellite receiving station for example.

Obviously, some force had to counterbalance the Soviet's infiltration of the crucial Australian labor movement -- which has many anti-Communists in it. Certainly America's global security -- especially in that critical part of the world -- was and is involved.

So the CIA infiltrated. Spook for spook. It's the name of the game.

The World War II Office of Strategic Services (OSS) under Franklin Roosevelt and Harry Truman constantly infiltrated foreign unions -- to fight the Nazis and the Communists.

To profit politically by exposing the intelligence poltergeists is like sending the ball team in without a catcher. You lose the ball and the game.

WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

Navy to Get 12 More A-7s Thanks to Capitol's Texans

by Jack Anderson and Les Whitten

WASHINGTON -- The Navy will get a dozen more A-7E attack planes than it requested -- not because of any urgent military need but because the planes will be constructed in Texas. They will cost the taxpayers, by the way, a whopping $100 million which President Carter doesn't want to spend.

Texas happens to be blessed, thanks to a seniority system that advances congressmen who keep getting re-elected, with a powerful congressional delegation. The congressmen from Texas have the power, as they have just demonstrated, to overrule the president when he tries to cut down on federal spending in the Lone Star State.

Carter is trying in the White House to make ends meet. He sent his budget trimmers to confer with the Navy about possible cutbacks. They agreed that the Navy could get along without those carrier-based, computerized A-7Es. So the president excised them from the budget, leaving only $21 million to keep the A-7E program going.

The Texas legislators are, of course, for God, country and economy, but they favor the economies in someone else's state. The test is not whether the weapon is worth the cost but whether its production will benefit their Texas constituency.

The A-7E warplanes are supposed to be built by LTV Corporation in Fort Worth, Texas. The Carter cut, therefore, aroused Rep. Dale Milford, D.-Texas, who has a lot of constituents in Ft. Worth. He enlisted House Democratic leader Jim Wright, whose home district also reaches into Ft. Worth. Then Rep. George Mahon, D.-Texas, the powerful House Appropriations chairman, joined the A-7E crusade.

This awesome trio, with help from other Texas congressmen, quickly restored funds for six planes over White House opposition. On the Senate side, Sen. John Tower, R.-Texas, a power on the Armed Services Committee, persuaded his colleagues to purchase six more planes, making an even dozen.

The Texans carried out their caper so skillfully, in fact, that there is little chance of a presidential veto. To knock the extra $100 million out of the budget, Carter would probably have to kill the entire appropriations bill for the Pentagon.

Escape From Bangkok: Our May 9, 1977, column apparently has driven Thailand's top narcotics trafficker into the hills. We identified him from secret intelligence reports as Chang Kai-cheng, a man of many tentacles, who operates hotels, trucks and shops.

But his biggest business, according to an intelligence document, is running "the largest heroin distribution organization in Thailand," with "narcotics connections in Holland, Singapore, Malaysia and Hong Kong." Much of the heroin he smuggles, of course, winds up in the back alleys of America.

We obtained his secret telephone numbers and placed a trans-Pacific telephone call to the startled Chang Kai-cheng in his Bangkok hideaway. Speaking through an interpreter, we got Chang to confirm facts we had learned about his background. But he stopped cold when we brought up the subject of narcotics. He claimed not to know what we were talking about.

Now information has reached House Narcotics Chairman Lester Wolff, D.-N.Y., that Thai authorities were spurred into action by our column and that the imperiled Chang fled Bangkok. According to Wolff, the Thai police discovered 348 pounds of heroin, morphine and opium in Chang's palatial dwelling.

Nuclear Monopoly: Behind the scenes of the energy crisis, a few giant corporations are playing a dangerous game of monopoly. They are pulling financial strings to gain a stranglehold on the most likely sources of energy.

We are indebted to Ralph Nader's Critical Mass Energy Project, which has been probing the corporate maze. Here are their confidential findings:

A tight corporate phalanx, spearheaded by a few of the nation's largest oil companies, has quietly bought up controlling interests in nearly every phase of the nuclear power industry.

A startling 70 per cent of the nation's uranium reserves, for example, are controlled by only seven companies. Five of them are giant oil companies: Atlantic Richfield, Exxon, Getty, Gulf and Kerr-McGee. All told, 20 of the top 25 oil companies have investments in the nation's uranium reserves.

Four of the five companies that dominate the recycling, or "reprocessing," of radioactive fuel are also oil companies. Oil barons also control a complicated process called "milling," which purifies radioactive uranium for later use in a reactor. The top five milling companies have a solid hold on 55 per cent of the market. Four are owned by oil interests: Anaconda, Continental, Exxon and Kerr-McGee.

Two firms, Westinghouse Electric and General Electric, control a shocking 70 per cent of all U.S. nuclear reactor sales. With Babcock and Wilcox and Combustion Engineering, they dominate 98 per cent of the market.

It has already been widely reported that the oil companies have been moving into the natural gas and coal industries. The concentrations, however, are less formidable than in the nuclear power industry. The top four firms producing oil and coal hold 31 per cent of the market. In natural gas, the figure is about 25 per cent.

Footnote: A nuclear industry spokesman explained that nuclear power is a "high risk venture." He also told us: "Concentration is not an unknown thing. There are just so many companies that can make a living on a given sector of the nuclear industry."

Ruling keeps abortions funded

NEW YORK (AP) — The ruling of a federal judge here will keep Medicaid funds flowing for elective abortions around the country until at least next Wednesday.

U.S. District Court Judge John Dooling on Thursday ordered the Department of Health, Education and Welfare to continue making Medicaid money available to states. Without his temporary injunction, virtually all elective abortions for Medicaid patients would have ceased immediately because the federal government would have stopped paying for them.

Dooling said he would hear arguments next Wednesday on whether he should issue an injunction ordering the federal payments continued, first on a temporary basis, but possibly on a permanent basis.

Ford, GM have best quarter

DETROIT (AP) — Ford Motor Co. has announced its most profitable quarter, with earnings up 20 per cent from a year ago, just one day after General Motors reported a 21 per cent earnings gain for its all-time best period.

But Chrysler Corp., the No. 3 U.S. automaker, said Thursday that its net profits for the AprilJune quarter declined 33 per cent because of two local strikes which trimmed thousands of vehicles from spring production schedules.

Chrysler is strongest in the compact car market, which has not been as strong this year. As a result, the firm's U.S. car sales are off about 8 per cent from last year, contributing to an earnings decline of $33 million. Worldwide, vehicle sales fell 2 per cent in the quarter.

K.C. base gains ray of hope

KANSAS CITY (AP) — A federal judge has given a ray of hope to city, county and state officials who are trying to keep the Defense Department from all but abandoning Kansas City's Richards+Gebaur Air Force Base.

Judge William R. Collinson Thursday issued an order which prohibits the Air Force from going ahead with its plan to return the headquarters of the Air Force Communications Service from Richards+Gebaur to Scott Air Force Base, Ill. About 3,900 military and civilian jobs are at stake.

City and county governments in the area have joined with 15 Air Force employes and others in attacking the validity of an environmental impact statement which the government was compelled to file. That filing came as a result of a landmark decision by another federal judge in Kansas City.

Collinson's temporary restraining order is in effect through Aug. 18.

Opponents have until Aug. 8 to file affidavits setting forth their reasons why he should issue a preliminary injunction prohibiting the move. The government has until Aug. 15 to file rebuttal material.

Economic indicators show dip

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government's index of leading indicators dropped six tenths of 1 per cent in June, foreshadowing a slowdown in economic activity, the Commerce Department said today.

The decrease in the index was the biggest since a drop of 1.3 per cent in January and followed a decline of two tenths of 1 per cent last month.

This is the first time the index has dropped two months in a row since August and September of 1976. The government index has increased steadily since last May and showed an increase as high as 2 per cent in March, reflecting recovery from the severe winter.

The administration has predicted a slight decline in the economy in the second half of the year after particularly strong activity in the first six months. Government economists still expect the economy to grow at a rate of 5 per cent in the last half of the year.

The biggest contributor to the decline was a drop in sensitive prices of raw materials, meaning less demand from manufacturers, the report said.

KENT, Ohio (AP) — Sixtyone demonstrators were arrested early today as they tried to reoccupy the Kent State University hill near which four students were killed in a 1970 antiwar protest. The demonstrators, defying a court order, had invaded a fence-enclosed construction site on Blanket Hill.

Carter backs off arms sale

WASHINTON (AP) — President Carter is giving in to congressional pressure to delay the sale of $1.5 billion in radar air-defense technology to Iran. A few hours after the House International Relations Committee adopted a resolution disapproving the sale of the controversial Airborne Warning and Control System (AWACS), Carter agreed to a month's delay, and accepted a list of six conditions to ease congressional concerns about security.

Crusade to open Monday at East Prairie church

EAST PRAIRIE -- A revival crusade conducted by Evangelist Charles Massegee of Dallas, Tex., will begin Monday and continue each evening at 7:30 through Aug. 7 at First Baptist Church, the Rev. R.L. Robinson, pastor, has announced.

The Rev. Mr. Massegee, a 42-year-old native of Ranger, Tex., previously has conducted two successful crusades in Charleston in recent years. Again accompanying him and singing special numbers will be his wife, Beverly, a supper club and Playboy circuit entertainer before their marriage and former Miss Texas contest winner.

A third member of the crusade team will be Steve Stanfield, a talented pianist, singer and songwriter who will present special music along with Mrs. Massegee.

A third generation minister, the Rev. Mr. Massegee's grandfather, the Rev. W.L. Massegee, has been preaching more than 60 years and his father, the Rev. J.C. Massegee has spent over 40 years in the ministry.

Since entering the field of evangelism after a brief period as pastor of East Side Baptist Church in Ranger, the Rev. Mr. Massegee has conducted more than 700 church and area-wide crusades throughout the United States. He also has furthered his education at Hardin-Simmons University in Abilene, Tex., and Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary at Fort Worth, Tex.

He served three consecutive one-year terms as president of the National Conference of

The Rev. Charles Massegee

Southern Baptist Evangelists from 1969 to 1972. He also is a writer, recording artist, magician, entertainer and sportsman, and is the father of a 9-year-old son, Rocky Shane Massegee.

The theme of his life and work is "Love, Joy and Peace -- Enjoy the Abundant Life in Christ."

Disciple Now youth event opens tonight

"Christian disciples are made not born" is the theme of a Disciple Now program to be held this weekend at Murray Lane Baptist Church, 807 W. Murray Lane, for all interested youth of the church and city.

The program is similar in nature to a retreat, but is held in homes rather than a retreat area. The opening session of the event will begin at 9 o'clock tonight when five groups and their leaders will enter five different homes and spend the next 32 hours together learning what it means to be a disciple of Jesus Christ. Study time will be mixed with rap time, fun, eating and sleep time.

The program was developed and pioneered by Tony Dyer of Euliss, Tex.

Leaders for the local program are Thomas Dollar, a deacon, and Dennis Jones, youth minister, of the Murray Lane church; Wes Light, youth pastor of First Baptist Church in Charleston; Jim Matthews, youth minister of the Miner

Wes Light

Baptist Church; and the Rev. Dr. Wade Paris, pastor at Murray Lane Baptist Church.

The emphasis will be concluded with a commitment service at the church Sunday night at 7:30. Light will be the speaker for that service.

Revival in progress

ESSEX -- A two week series of revival services is in progress at Clines Island General Baptist Church, with the Rev. Richard Clark of Poplar Bluff serving as evangelist. Services begin nightly at 7:30.

The church located northeast of town on Route AB, recently completed a Vacation Bible School program with an average attendance of 82. Teaching classes were: Mr. and Mrs. Johnny Haws, Mrs. Nancy Buchanan, Mrs. Donna Peterson, Phillis Pendigrass, Steve Jordan, Rhonda Ledbetter, Mrs. Sue Snider and the Rev. Ronnie Ledbetter. Other leaders were Brenda Owinging, devotion and Marian Ledbetter, director. Mr. and Mrs. Arch Pierce and others served in the kitchen.

Gospel singing trio to visit local church

The Doug David Trio, a gospel singing group from New York, will be featured in a 7:30 p.m. singing program Saturday at the United Pentecostal Church, 338 Matthews Ave.

The trio will sing again Sunday morning during the Sunday School program beginning at 9:45.

Calvary to host singers

The Singing Beebes from Bourbon, Mo. will appear at Calvary Assembly, located at the corner of Scott and Trotter streets, Sunday morning, according to Pastor T.A. McDonough, who says the group has ministered in the church once before and was outstanding in their musical talent and spirit.

The schedule for Sunday's activities at Calvary is: Sunday school, 9:30 a.m. preaching service, 10:30 am.; youth service, 5:30 pm. and night preaching service, 7 o'clock.

The pastor's sermon topic in the Sunday night preaching service will be: "What The Bible Teaches About Divine Healing."

A nursery is provided for each service.

Revival to open Sunday at Parma

LILBOURN -- The Rev. Neil Stein of Poplar Bluff, district superintendent of the United Methodist Church Poplar Bluff-Sikeston District, will be guest speaker for revival services scheduled at the Parma United Methodist Church and the Lilbourn United Methodist Church.

Services are scheduled at 7:30 Sunday, Monday and Tuesday nights at the Parma church and Wednesday, Thursday and Friday evenings in the Lilbourn church.

The Rev. Chester Pulliam of Whitewater, former pastor of the churches, will be song leader and special music will be featured, according to the Rev. Bennie J. Wilsey, host pastor of the two churches.

Jill Heckert to be Christian Center guest

Jill Heckert, a guitarist and Christian folk singer from Bertrand, will be the featured guest for next week's praise service at Sikeston Christian Center, 210 E. Center St.

The weekly programs begin at 7:30 p.m. each Thursday at the center, a youth-oriented meeting place for Christian recreation and guidance.

Taylor church plans revival next week

ESSEX -- Revival services will begin Monday night and continue at 7:30 each evening through Aug. 6 at Taylor General Baptist Church, the Rev. James Niederstadt, pastor, has announced.

The evangelist will be the Rev. Joe Williams.

OCCUPATIONAL ADDRESS

MAUMEE, Ohio (AP) — What's more appropriate than a foot doctor who lives in Footville?

Robert Purdy, a podiatrist here, received a letter recently that had been mistakenly sent first to, of all places, a Wisconsin town of Footville.

Canalou church to host Teen Challenge Rally

The New Creations choir and the Rev. Phil Breithaupt from Mid-America Teen Challenge Training Center near Cape Girardeau will be featured in a Teen Challenge Rally Sunday morning at the Canalou Assembly of God Church. Composed of present students at the center who were previously involved in crime, drug abuse and other forms of delinquency, the choir will share its songs and testimony of mental and physical cure through Christ during the 9:45 a.m. Sunday School hour and 10:45 a.m. worship service.

Centuries of Jewish law computerized

TEL AVIV (AP) — The wisdom of Judaism, recorded over the centuries as widely scattered sages interpreted Jewish law, is being inscribed electronically on magnetic discs in a monumental marriage of tradition and computer technology.

With 10 years of labor on the Responsa project, computer scientists at Bar-Ilan University so far have entered in the computer some 18,000 questions out of the total 250,000 in the Responsa literature.

"The Responsa is like case law," said Dr. Yaacov Choueka, 40, director of the project. "It covers traditions of over 1,000 years of rabbis' pronouncement on all subjects of life."

The older questions in the Responsa often came from isolated Jewish communities in Europe, North Africa and Asia, where local religious authorities were stymied by a controversy. They wrote letters to the currently recognized sages — in Babylonia, Spain, Palestine — for a ruling.

Compiled in separate volumes starting in the eighth century and continuing today, the Responsa contributed mightily to the development of the ethical precepts of Judaism and also helped to unify Jews in one way of life no matter where they lived.

To today's scientist, the Responsa can be a "storehouse of information for all kinds of research, including history, sociology, linguistics, business and of course Judaica," Choueka said.

"The problem is that there is no index. You would have to look through 3,000 books to find what you want."

Thus all this information — 14 million words of unadulterated text so far—is key-punched into the computer memory so that it can be pulled out again in a systematic way.

"The program now can scan the whole input, looking for a word or key phrase," said Choueka, an immigrant from Egypt whose specialty is information retrieval, one of the fast-developing fields in computer science.

Over 400 searches have been made of the material in the computer.

A linguist, for example, asked about the usage of the Hebrew phrase "mikol makom," meaning "however."

In less than a minute the computer produced page and line references that would permit the linguist to compare the usage of Rabbi Moses Ben Nachman, who lived in 13th century Spain, with that of Rabbi Ovadia Yosef, the present chief rabbi of Israel's Sephardic community.

Other queries have involved marriage, divorce, widowhood, business practice and religious ritual.

In ancient times messengers on horseback carried the questions and answers around the Jewish diaspora.

Maria Tolbert to present vocal concert

CLARKTON -- Maria Tolbert of Lubbock, Tex., will appear in concert at 7 p.m. Sunday in First Baptist Church, where she will present a program of sacred vocal music.

She is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Wayne Wood of Clarkton. Dr. Wood is pastor of First Baptist Church here, and Mrs. Wood is a member of the Gideon Elementary School Faculty.

Mrs. Tolbert is the wife of Duke Tolbert, minister of youth at First Baptist Church in Lubbock, and the mother of a 5-year-old son, Wesley Wayne, and an 11-month-old daughter, Emily Dawn.

She received her professional vocal training at Southern Baptist College in Walnut Ridge, Ark., Southwest Baptist College at Bolivar, Mo., and Southeast Missouri State University in Cape Girardeau. She holds the bachelor's degree in vocal music from Southeast Missouri State University.

She has appeared numerous times on the television program, "Think About Tomorrow," an award-winning program televised on Channel 11 in St. Louis, and she is featured on an LP album. She has composed music and has arranged musicals for adult and youth choirs.

The concert will be about one hour in length, and is open to the public.

The POWER of FAITH

By WOODI ISHMAEL

No. 10. The Sermon on the Mount

Jesus traveled throughout Galilee, teaching and preaching about the Kingdom of Heaven. He also healed every sort of sickness and disease. Huge crowds followed him wherever he went. One day as the crowds gathered, he went up a mountain with his disciples and sat down and taught them there.

"Blessed are the poor in spirit: for theirs is the kingdom of heaven. Blessed are they that mourn: for they shall be comforted. Blessed are the meek: for they shall inherit the earth. Blessed are they which do hunger and thirst after righteousness: for they shall be filled. Blessed are the merciful: for they shall obtain mercy." (Matthew 5:3-7)

"Blessed are the pure in heart: for they shall see God. Blessed are the peacemakers: for they shall be called the children of God. Blessed are they which are persecuted for righteousness' sake: for theirs is the kingdom of heaven. Blessed are ye, when men shall revile you, and persecute you, and shall say all manner of evil against you falsely, for my sake. Rejoice, and be exceeding glad: for great is your reward in heaven; for so persecuted they the prophets which were before you." (Matthew 5:8-12)

Canalou church to host Teen Challenge Rally

The New Creations choir and the Rev. Phil Breithaupt from Mid-America Teen Challenge Training Center near Cape Girardeau will be featured in a Teen Challenge Rally Sunday morning at the Canalou Assembly of God Church. Composed of present students at the center who were previously involved in crime, drug abuse and other forms of delinquency, the choir will share its songs and testimony of mental and physical cure through Christ during the 9:45 a.m. Sunday School hour and 10:45 a.m. worship service.

Centuries of Jewish law computerized

TEL AVIV (AP) — The wisdom of Judaism, recorded over the centuries as widely scattered sages interpreted Jewish law, is being inscribed electronically on magnetic discs in a monumental marriage of tradition and computer technology.

With 10 years of labor on the Responsa project, computer scientists at Bar-Ilan University so far have entered in the computer some 18,000 questions out of the total 250,000 in the Responsa literature.

"The Responsa is like case law," said Dr. Yaacov Choueka, 40, director of the project. "It covers traditions of over 1,000 years of rabbis' pronouncement on all subjects of life."

The older questions in the Responsa often came from isolated Jewish communities in Europe, North Africa and Asia, where local religious authorities were stymied by a controversy. They wrote letters to the currently recognized sages — in Babylonia, Spain, Palestine — for a ruling.

Compiled in separate volumes starting in the eighth century and continuing today, the Responsa contributed mightily to the development of the ethical precepts of Judaism and also helped to unify Jews in one way of life no matter where they lived.

To today's scientist, the Responsa can be a "storehouse of information for all kinds of research, including history, sociology, linguistics, business and of course Judaica," Choueka said.

"The problem is that there is no index. You would have to look through 3,000 books to find what you want."

Thus all this information — 14 million words of unadulterated text so far—is key-punched into the computer memory so that it can be pulled out again in a systematic way.

"The program now can scan the whole input, looking for a word or key phrase," said Choueka, an immigrant from Egypt whose specialty is information retrieval, one of the fast-developing fields in computer science.

Over 400 searches have been made of the material in the computer.

A linguist, for example, asked about the usage of the Hebrew phrase "mikol makom," meaning "however."

In less than a minute the computer produced page and line references that would permit the linguist to compare the usage of Rabbi Moses Ben Nachman, who lived in 13th century Spain, with that of Rabbi Ovadia Yosef, the present chief rabbi of Israel's Sephardic community.

Other queries have involved marriage, divorce, widowhood, business practice and religious ritual.

In ancient times messengers on horseback carried the questions and answers around the Jewish diaspora.

Maria Tolbert to present vocal concert

CLARKTON -- Maria Tolbert of Lubbock, Tex., will appear in concert at 7 p.m. Sunday in First Baptist Church, where she will present a program of sacred vocal music.

She is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Wayne Wood of Clarkton. Dr. Wood is pastor of First Baptist Church here, and Mrs. Wood is a member of the Gideon Elementary School Faculty.

Mrs. Tolbert is the wife of Duke Tolbert, minister of youth at First Baptist Church in Lubbock, and the mother of a 5-year-old son, Wesley Wayne, and an 11-month-old daughter, Emily Dawn.

She received her professional vocal training at Southern Baptist College in Walnut Ridge, Ark., Southwest Baptist College at Bolivar, Mo., and Southeast Missouri State University in Cape Girardeau. She holds the bachelor's degree in vocal music from Southeast Missouri State University.

She has appeared numerous times on the television program, "Think About Tomorrow," an award-winning program televised on Channel 11 in St. Louis, and she is featured on an LP album. She has composed music and has arranged musicals for adult and youth choirs.

The concert will be about one hour in length, and is open to the public.

The POWER of FAITH

By WOODI ISHMAEL

No. 10. The Sermon on the Mount

Jesus traveled throughout Galilee, teaching and preaching about the Kingdom of Heaven. He also healed every sort of sickness and disease. Huge crowds followed him wherever he went. One day as the crowds gathered, he went up a mountain with his disciples and sat down and taught them there.

"Blessed are the poor in spirit: for theirs is the kingdom of heaven. Blessed are they that mourn: for they shall be comforted. Blessed are the meek: for they shall inherit the earth. Blessed are they which do hunger and thirst after righteousness: for they shall be filled. Blessed are the merciful: for they shall obtain mercy." (Matthew 5:3-7)

"Blessed are the pure in heart: for they shall see God. Blessed are the peacemakers: for they shall be called the children of God. Blessed are they which are persecuted for righteousness' sake: for theirs is the kingdom of heaven. Blessed are ye, when men shall revile you, and persecute you, and shall say all manner of evil against you falsely, for my sake. Rejoice, and be exceeding glad: for great is your reward in heaven; for so persecuted they the prophets which were before you." (Matthew 5:8-12)

Clinic demostrated sewing machine features for new fabrics

Over 50 women attended the University of Missouri Extension Service Sewing Machine Clinic, Thursday, at the Sikes on Junior High School.

The clinic had representatives from four sewing machine companies who demonstrated their equipments outstanding features with use of new fabrics on the market. They also presented information on the care, maintenance and service that the consumer may expect from that machine.

The 50 women were divided in to four one-hour sessions with the companies consisting of Bernina, Necchi & Elna, Singer and Viking. The representatives were from the Bootheel Area.

Dear Ann Landers

Reader has a solution for television addiction

Dear Ann: Mrs. USA, who described TV as an addiction, asked for a solution. I found mine.

I, too, was using TV as an escape -- from 7:00 p.m. to 2:00 a.m. It was a semi-snooze -- from the time I got home from a very demanding job until I rolled into bed.

One night the TV broke. At first I was furious, but something kept me from repairing it. Soon I found I was reading more and eating less. (No TV snacks when I don't watch TV.) I had a lot more energy and began to focus on solutions to problems that had always seemed too overwhelming to face. TV had provided me with an excuse not to deal with them and I simply ambled along from day to day.

My suggestion to Mrs. USA is this: Throw a rock through the screen or push the damned thing down a flight of stairs. Sure, you'll miss it for a couple of days but it will be the first step toward living in the real world again. -- No Name Please (I Have To Live In This Town)

Dear N. Name: If it worked for you, fine, but I am not about to suggest that anyone throw a rock tnrough his TV screen or push it down the stairs.

Makin the set inoperable may have been the answer for you, but removing a few tubes would have worked just as well. Then, when somethin you really wanted to watch was scheduled, you could put the tubes back in and enjoy yourself. There are some programs worth seeing.

Dear Ann Landers: We were talking at our bridge club the other evening about gifts from our married children. I remarked that the best gift I could possibly receive would be for my son(s) to spend one day a year with me.

I love my daughters-in-law but in the eight to ten years my two sons have been married I have never been alone with either of them for more than a few minutes.

If any of you daughters-in-law in Ann Landers' reading audience are looking for the perfect gift for your husband's mother -- be it her birthday, Christmas or Mother's Day -- I suggest this one. It would be the most meaningful thing you could give her. -- A Widow Who Knows (P.S. I have spent many afternoons and evenings alone with my daughters-in-law but never with my sons.)

Dear Mother: I think your suggestion is nifty -- and it doesn't cost a dime! Let's hope your letter starts a trend.

Dear Ann: Your answer to the fellow who knew a lot of straight students on campus who were trying bisexuality for kicks was right on target. I'd like to thank you and add, amen, Sister.

One night I got bombed on beer and stoned on pot and went the other way with two other straights who were also bombed and stoned. We wanted to see what it was like. When we sobered up several hours later we were all sick to our stomachs and couldn't look at each other. It never would have happened had we been in our right minds. We all agreed it was stupid, nutty and something we'll be ashamed of for a long time.

Thank you for having the courage to deal with problems of this kind. Your advice is right on and you are performing a much-needed service. -- Shalom From Colorado

Dear Shalom: Thanks for your kind words. I received precious few plaudits in response to that letter. Most people who wrote misunderstood my answer completely. They accused me of being condemnatory, vicious and mean to all homosexuals.

To economize on sugar when making jam, let the fruit boil for about 10 minutes before adding sugar. Only about half of the usual amount of sugar will be needed.

Make sauerkraut when the moon is new until the first quarter, and the juice will stay on until it is used.

When canning corn, place cob in angel food cake pan tube and cut off the corn. The corn will fall into the pan.

Do not peel pears for canning, scald as you do tomatoes and the skins will slip off.

Opening-game jitters hurt All-Stars

By CHARLIE FRANCIS
Daily Standard Sports Editor

CARTHAGE, Mo.— Sikeston's Senior Babe Ruth League All-Stars didn't have to qualify for the State Tournament and hadn't played a game together before Friday night's opener against Chaffee. It showed in their performance.

Opening-game, opening-inning jitters gave Chaffee two unearned runs in the first inning last night. Those tallies turned out to be important ones as Chaffee nipped Sikeston 4-3 to advance into a 3:30 winner's bracket confrontation with Jefferson City who beat Moberly 6-4, and dump Sikeston into the loser's bracket. Sikeston meets Spring Valley tonight at 6:30 in a do-or-die battle to avoid elimination in the double-elimination tournament.

"They were just nervous," was Richard Ivie's explanation of Sikeston's shaky start in the six-team tournament. The All-Stars booted the ball five times in all as they helped Chaffee to their second win in as many nights. Chaffee had beaten Carthage 3-0 in the opener Wednesday evening.

Ivie said that Larry Jackson will start on the mound tonight against Spring Valley in the must-win situation. If Sikeston wins that contest, they will come back with Don Francis against either the winner of a 8:30 loser's bracket game tonight between Carthage and Moberly. That game would be Saturday evening at 6:00.

Starter and loser Roger Cloud was the victim of two boo-boos on the same play that let Chaffee score twice in the first. Scott Wachter who held Sikeston to four hits on the mound and went 3-for-3 at the plate, walked and stole second to start the inning. After Ray Campbell flied out, Don Kiefer grounded too short, where Mike Ivie threw wild to first. Wachter came in to score, and a heads-up Kiefer kept running. After the play at the plate failed to get Wachter, Stan Ivie threw wild to third trying to get Kiefer, who trotted home to make it 2-0.

Sikeston broke through against the hard-throwing Wachter in the third. Kenny Standridge walked and moved down to second on a wild pitch. After Mike Ivie fanned, Cloud helped himself with a basehit to scored Standridge. Stanley Ivie also struck out, but David Ellington kept the inning alive with an infield hit. Larry Jackson blooped a Texas Leaguer behind second base to tie the game.

Chaffee regained the lead in the bottom of the inningwhen Rick Hamm stroked a two-out double to chase home Kiefer, who had singled. Hamm was out at third trying to stretch the blow into a triple.

Chaffee, which boooted the ball three times in the course of the evening, made all three miscue on the same play in the fifth to let Sikeston tie the game at 3-3. Mike Ivie reached when shortstop Greg Miller couldn't come up with his grounder. Wachter tried to pick off Ivie at first, and the throw went into right field. Hamm threw wildly from right into third to try to get Ivie, and the runner tallied with the tying run.

Again, the tie didn't last very long. In the bottom of the inning, Wachter rapped his third hit of the game and stole second. After Ray Campbell bunted him down to third, Kiefer stroked his second basehit to chase home the winning run.

That knocked out Cloud and brought on Jerry Naile to pitch. Naile struck out two batters to kill the threat in the fifth, but got into trouble in the sixth. Don Francis came on with two on and two out and walked the dangerous Kiefer to load the bases. But Francis then whiffed Greg Miller to end the inning.

Sikeston had a good chance to tie the game again in the sixth, but poor baserunning did them in. Dewayne Barnett batted for Steve Fisher and lined a single. Shane Story, who ran for Barnett, stole second, but was caught rounding third when Perry Smith grounded out. First baseman Randy Horrell, who was 3-for-3 for Chaffee, threw a strike to Mitch Jackson at third to nail the surprised Story.

"It was a typical Sikeston-Chaffee game," said Bob Wachter of the latest game in the area's hottest Babe Ruth rivalry.

If Sikeston wins tonight and again in Saturday's 6:00 game, they would come right back to meet the loser of the Chaffee-Jefferson City winner's bracket game at 8:30.

The tournament will conclude Sunday afternoon.

Jets, Bears open season

CANTON, Ohio (AP) — Quarterback Richard Todd replaces his boyhood hero this season as the New York Jets try to climb back into National Football League contention.

"Joe Namath always had been my idol since the eighth grade," said Todd, who takes his first step as full-time successor to Namath Saturday when he starts for the Jets against the Chicago Bears in the year's first exhiiton, the Pro Football Hall of Fame game.

Before the exhibitxon, Bart Starr, Forrest Gregg, Gale Sayers, Bill Willis and Frank Gifford will be inducted into the shrine. They represent the largest class since 1971 and bring the hall's immortals to 93.

"I'm no Namath," said Todd. "Joe is the greatest quarterback that ever played the game. I've got to do it my own way."

Todd alternated with Namath in the Jets' 3-11 season last year. Namath, who became a free agent, signed with the Los Angeles Rams in the off-season.

Walt Michaels, the Jets' new coach, is making no predictions this fall. "I will have the team ready to play, but I'm making no promises on a winning season," he said.

The Bears, in the mind of Coach Jack Pardee, already are a bona fide challenger and should challenge the Minnesota Vikings in the National Football Conference's Central Division.

"Our team has come to a point where we can make a real run at the Vikings," said Pardee, 7-7 in his second Chicago season last year.

Pardee will start Bob Avellini at quarterback against the Jets. He figures to use Mike Phipps, obtained from Cleveland, as Avellini's alternate.

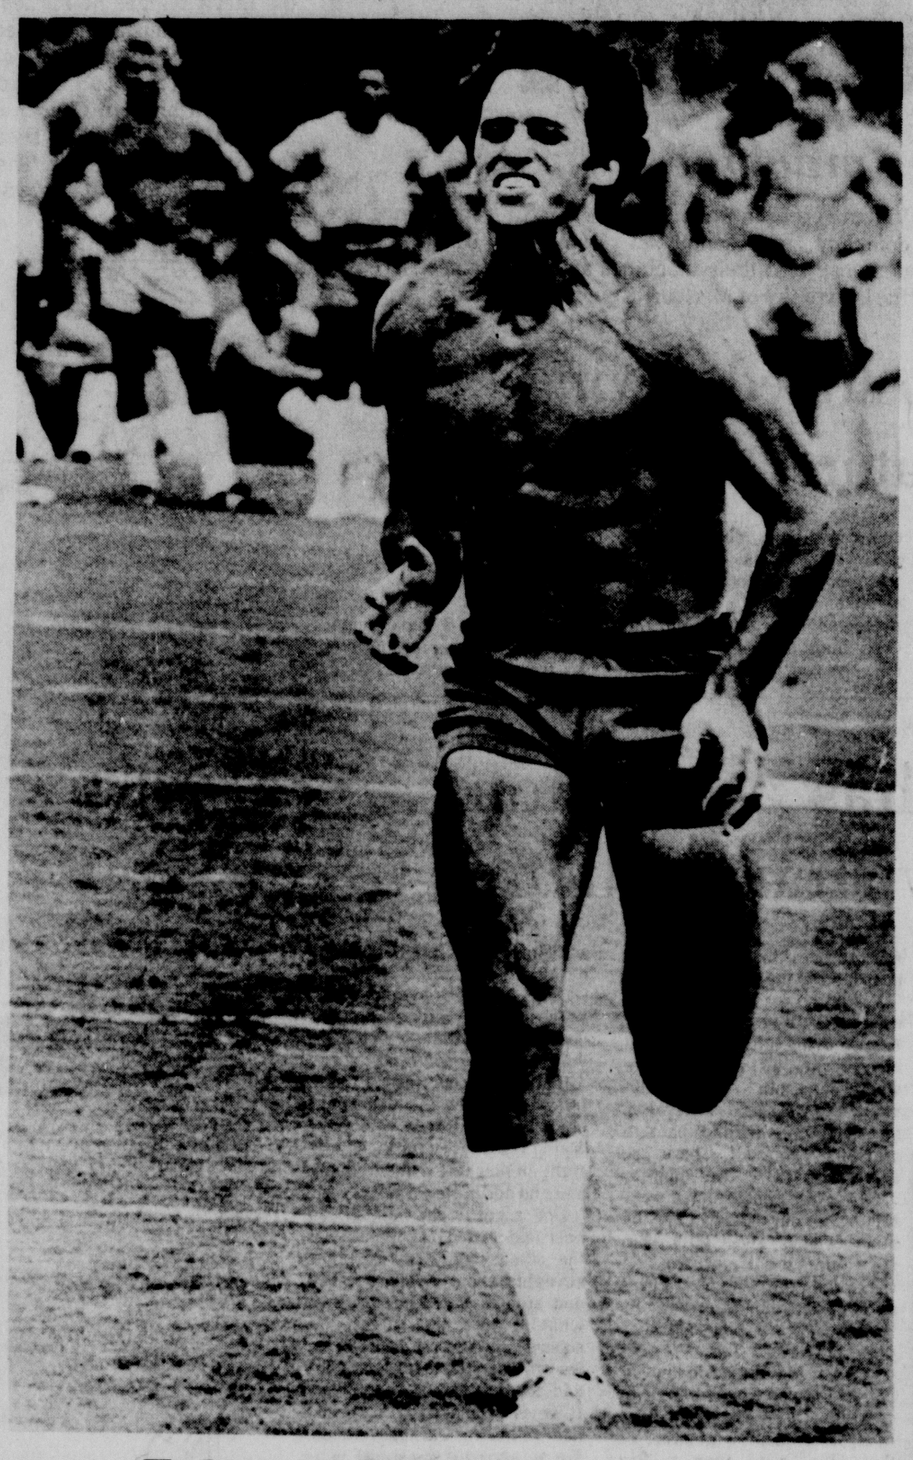
At other NFL training camps, veteran quarterback Bob Berry of the Minnesota Vikings retired after 12 seasons in the league.

Star running back Del Williams admitted to some uneasy feelings about his unsigned status with the San Francisco 49ers. "I just go out and try to play but always in the back of my mind is 'What if I get hurt?' Then what happens?'"

Williams, the fourth-year pro from Kansas who gained 1,203 yards last year, wouldn't say just what the problems were in settling on a contract. But he clearly expects more than he's been offered to date.

Pittsburgh's All-Pro linebacker Jack Lambert wants a raise or another team, according to his agent, Bucky Woy. The agent said if college draftees Tony Dorsett and Ricky Bell are worth $1 million, then the man who can stop them, Lambert, deserves more.

Atlanta Falcons running back Bubba Bean underwent knee surgery at Piedmont Hospital in Atlanta and will be lost to the team indefinitely, club officials said.



Foley makes a comeback

Veteran Dolphin cornerback Tim Foley is back at the Miami Dolphins training camp this year after undergoing knee surgery last September that kept him off the playing field throughout the 1976 playing season. Foley, who has been with the Dolphins for seven years, says he is working harder than ever this season to get back into shape for the opening exhibition game August 13. (AP Wirephoto)

Hot Royals look to series with Chisox

KANSAS CITY (AP) — So many novel, unexpected events have bombarded their senses in recent days and weeks that it seems only natural to the Kansas City Royals that they should now embark on a crucial weekend series against, of all people, the Chicago White Sox.

"After all," remarked one player, "when we saw them in spring training we knew they'd be awful."

But the Sox have been awesome. And with Kansas City's second straight 5-4, 11th-inning victory over Cleveland Thursday night, they lead the defending AL West champion Royals by 3½ games.

"We'll just take 'em as they come," said Royals outfielder Hal McRae. "Strange things have been happening."

Strange indeed. Tall, slender Doug Bird struck out five Indians in 2 and one-third innings Thursday night to notch his 12th straight victory in relief and lower his earned run average over the past 20 innings to 0.89.

Earlier in the year, it seemed the only way Bird could make an out was with a bat.

The victory was Kansas City's eighth straight at home, a new club record. The last three victories, all in extra innings, went to Bird.

Joe Lahoud brought home the winning hit with a pinch single off Dennis Eckersley, who toiled every inning and saw his record dip to 9-8. It was Lahoud's first hit since being called up from Omaha July 10.

Wednesday night's 11th-inning heroics went to seldom-used utility man Bob Heise, who collected his first RBI of the year by bunting home the tying run, and later singled in the winning run.

Bird, used sporadically as a starter the past two years, has not lost in relief since Aug. 15, 1975. His 1977 record now stands at 8-1.

"We're not an overpowering kind of team," he said. "We beat people with defense and taking extra bases. It's making old men of us, but it seems to work."

Defense and aggressive baserunning turned the truck against the Indians, who collected 13 hits, including three by Duane Kuiper and four by Ron Pruitt. Catcher Darrell Porter and second baseman Frank White each turned in defensive gems at critically times.

Pruitt's two-run triple off Larry Gura had pulled the Indians even in the eighth inning, but Pruitt's attempt at an extra base backfired when Fred Patek's relay throw beat him to the plate.

20 great years, thanks to you.

Opening-game jitters hurt All-Stars

By CHARLIE FRANCIS
Daily Standard Sports Editor

CARTHAGE, Mo.— Sikeston's Senior Babe Ruth League All-Stars didn't have to qualify for the State Tournament and hadn't played a game together before Friday night's opener against Chaffee. It showed in their performance.

Opening-game, opening-inning jitters gave Chaffee two unearned runs in the first inning last night. Those tallies turned out to be important ones as Chaffee nipped Sikeston 4-3 to advance into a 3:30 winner's bracket confrontation with Jefferson City who beat Moberly 6-4, and dump Sikeston into the loser's bracket. Sikeston meets Spring Valley tonight at 6:30 in a do-or-die battle to avoid elimination in the double-elimination tournament.

"They were just nervous," was Richard Ivie's explanation of Sikeston's shaky start in the six-team tournament. The All-Stars booted the ball five times in all as they helped Chaffee to their second win in as many nights. Chaffee had beaten Carthage 3-0 in the opener Wednesday evening.

Ivie said that Larry Jackson will start on the mound tonight against Spring Valley in the must-win situation. If Sikeston wins that contest, they will come back with Don Francis against either the winner of a 8:30 loser's bracket game tonight between Carthage and Moberly. That game would be Saturday evening at 6:00.

Starter and loser Roger Cloud was the victim of two boo-boos on the same play that let Chaffee score twice in the first. Scott Wachter who held Sikeston to four hits on the mound and went 3-for-3 at the plate, walked and stole second to start the inning. After Ray Campbell flied out, Don Kiefer grounded too short, where Mike Ivie threw wild to first. Wachter came in to score, and a heads-up Kiefer kept running. After the play at the plate failed to get Wachter, Stan Ivie threw wild to third trying to get Kiefer, who trotted home to make it 2-0.

Sikeston broke through against the hard-throwing Wachter in the third. Kenny Standridge walked and moved down to second on a wild pitch. After Mike Ivie fanned, Cloud helped himself with a basehit to scored Standridge. Stanley Ivie also struck out, but David Ellington kept the inning alive with an infield hit. Larry Jackson blooped a Texas Leaguer behind second base to tie the game.

Chaffee regained the lead in the bottom of the inningwhen Rick Hamm stroked a two-out double to chase home Kiefer, who had singled. Hamm was out at third trying to stretch the blow into a triple.

Chaffee, which boooted the ball three times in the course of the evening, made all three miscue on the same play in the fifth to let Sikeston tie the game at 3-3. Mike Ivie reached when shortstop Greg Miller couldn't come up with his grounder. Wachter tried to pick off Ivie at first, and the throw went into right field. Hamm threw wildly from right into third to try to get Ivie, and the runner tallied with the tying run.

Again, the tie didn't last very long. In the bottom of the inning, Wachter rapped his third hit of the game and stole second. After Ray Campbell bunted him down to third, Kiefer stroked his second basehit to chase home the winning run.

That knocked out Cloud and brought on Jerry Naile to pitch. Naile struck out two batters to kill the threat in the fifth, but got into trouble in the sixth. Don Francis came on with two on and two out and walked the dangerous Kiefer to load the bases. But Francis then whiffed Greg Miller to end the inning.

Sikeston had a good chance to tie the game again in the sixth, but poor baserunning did them in. Dewayne Barnett batted for Steve Fisher and lined a single. Shane Story, who ran for Barnett, stole second, but was caught rounding third when Perry Smith grounded out. First baseman Randy Horrell, who was 3-for-3 for Chaffee, threw a strike to Mitch Jackson at third to nail the surprised Story.

"It was a typical Sikeston-Chaffee game," said Bob Wachter of the latest game in the area's hottest Babe Ruth rivalry.

If Sikeston wins tonight and again in Saturday's 6:00 game, they would come right back to meet the loser of the Chaffee-Jefferson City winner's bracket game at 8:30.

The tournament will conclude Sunday afternoon.

INDIANA PACERS — Released Stan Mayhew, forward, and Tom Scheffler, center.

TENNIS

LOUISVILLE, Ky. — Hans Gildemeister of Chile unleashed a flurry of passing shots and upset fourth-seeded Wojtek Fibak of Poland 6-2, 7-6 in a second-round match in the $125,000 Louisville International Tennis Classic.

In other matches Thursday, third-seeded Dick Stockton of Carrollton, Texas ran off 10 straight games in topping Nikki Spear of Yugoslavia 6-2, 6-0; fifth-seeded Harold Solomon, who won this tournament last year, advanced with a 3-6, 6-2, 6-3 decision over Cliff Letcher and No. 7 Phil Dent of Australia defeated Van Winitsky, 6-2, 7-6.

GOLF

PHILADELPHIA — Terry Diehl clipped six strokes off par with a 65 that staked him to a one-shot lead Thursday in the first round of the $200,000 Philadelphia Golf Classic.

Diehl, 27, whose only pro victory came in his rookie season of 1974, once made birdie from a bunker and needed only 12 putts over the last 11 holes at the 6,687-yard Whitemarsh Valley Country Club course.

GENERAL

BASEBALL

ORLANDO, Fla. — New York Mets infielder Lenny Randle was fined $1,000 by a Florida Circuit Court judge for a slugging and kicking attack on former Texas Rangers Manager Frank Lucchesi.

Under an agreement reached earlier, the prosecution reduced the charge from a felony to a misdemeanor and Randle pleaded no contest.

SIMPSON STRATEGY

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — O.J. Simpson of the Buffalo Bills says he was the first running back in the National Football League to line up seven yards behind the line of scrimmage.

"I wanted more time to see what was developing ahead of me," he explained. "I sometimes make moves behind the line that help linemen with their blocks. I have always thought it's not how quick you can get to the line but how quick you can get through it."

HOCKEY MARATHON

MONTREAL (AP) — The longest game in Stanley Cup playoff history was played between the Detroit Red Wings and the now defunct Montreal Maroons on March 24-25, 1936.

It lasted 176 minutes and 30 seconds, of which 116 minutes and 30 seconds were overtime. Detroit won it, 1-0.

Urrea's five-hitter runs win streak to six games

ST. LOUIS (AP) — John Urrea can thank a bird dog south of the border for his early arrival in the major leagues.

The hard-throwing rookie spun a five-hitter Thursday night and St. Louis Cardinals Manager Vern Rapp afterward described the setting for his discovery.

"I had some earlier reports on him from a friend of mine who scouts in Mexico during the winter," said Rapp following Urrea's 3-0 taming of the Atlanta Braves.

"I had firsthand information on him before I went to spring training," added Rapp. "He eventually kind of made some eyes pop, because he did some things."

What Urrea, a native Californian, did until a week ago was fortify a St. Louis bullpen which lacked right-handers when the season opened.

But following a spectacular start in April, lapses in his form led to a propensity for yielding home runs and left him with a 2-3 record after working in 28 Cards games.

Urrea first started last week in a game against the Houston Astros, surrendering eight hits in 7 2-3 innings and leaving without a decision.

Thursday night, the tall right-hander overpowered 12 Atlanta batters before surrendering a hit and later extracted himself from a jam with the aid of a call by catcher Dave Rader.

"I think it was actually Dave's out-thinking him, because we were going in on him all night," said Urrea, who fanned Willie Montanez with a fast ball away following two leadoff Braves singles in the seventh.

"You try to keep the ball down and stay away from the long ball," added the young hurler. "You can make a mistake and get hurt."

Urrea's six-strikeout performance was supported by a St. Louis offense consisting mainly of Garry Templeton's single in the first inning and two-run triple in the fifth.

Templeton stole second, made it to third on Tony Scott's fly ball and crossed the plate on a wild pitch by Buzz Capra, 2-8, for the first run.

Four innings later, Urrea walked with two out and Lou Brock singled before Templeton slammed his 10th triple of the campaign to cap the Cards' sixth straight triumph.

Impressed by Urrea's 99-pitch shutout, Rapp said the 22-year-old hurler will remain in a St. Louis rotation of starters along with Tom Underwood, Bob Forsch, Eric Rasmussen and reactivated John Denny.

"I wanted him to be in the (National) league a while," said Rapp of his decision to delay Urrea's starting roles until mid-season. "Around the All-Star break I just figured it was time to give him the opportunity."

Imo Out

Sports columnists throughout Cardinal country have had fun lately with the latest episode in the continuing feud between Al Hrabosky and Vern Rapp. Enough ink has been printed about last week's confrontation to float a small battleship. And in view of the explosiveness of the two personalities, that might be an appropriate analogy.

In case you've been out of the country for the past week, here is what transpired:

Cardinal President Gussie Busch told Hrabosky that he cold go ahead and have his Fu Manchu, since the Mad Hungarian had proclaimed to the press that his ineffectiveness this season was due to his lack of facial hair. In a prepared statement to the press distributed at a press conference last Thursday, Busch publicly embarassed M.H., made charges that he was acting childish, and told Hrabosky that if he didn't produce with the mustache, he'd look pretty silly after all the crying he'd done.

Not much more can be said about the incident than has already been written. The clearing of the air hasn't produced any immediate dividends in the way of an improved Hrabosky, but the relaxed tension is probably responible in part for the Redbirds' six-game winning streak.

You've got to like the way Mr. Busch handled the problem, though, for a couple of reasons.

Rapp probably realized that his silly grooming code was just that, especially after it had served to divide the club, rather than bring it together, as was his good intention. But stubborn man that he is (and so is Hrabosky, of course), he was too proud to admit it. Had he backed down from his high school-type edict and told Hrabosky and the rest of the Redbirds that they could have their long hair again, he would, in effect, be admitting that he was wrong in the first place. An insult to his pride.

But by revoking the rule himself, Busch saved Rapp the embarassment of having to back down. And by leaving the option open of possibly reinstating the hair rule next season if the club does not win this year, he did not give the impression that he thought the rule was a bad one. And he furthered his support of Rapp by extending his contract. The tension was broken, but neither side was humiliated in the process. Very diplomatic, that Gussie Busch.

And Busch's ultimatum to M.H. to produce or shut up might just be the kick in the behind that Hrabosky needs to motivate him to something that at least approaches his old form. He is a man who prides himself on self-motivation--motivation from the opposition (the controlled hate factor), their fans and the game situation. Now that the Redbird owner has put the monkey on Hrabosky's back, you have to add fear of failure to the reasons for motivation. Challenges have brought out the best in the Mad Hungarian in the past, and this one might just do it again.

Deep down inside, both Rapp and Hrabosky realize that they probably have made mistakes, although both are too proud to admit it publicly. Rapp's narrow-minded "I-am-the-boss-you-do-as-I-say" attitude has made communication between the players and management almost impossible. And although he didn't agree with the rule, the Mad Hungarian was wrong in making the grooming code his excuse for poor performance. The truth is that Hrabosky is not throwing as hard as he used to.

Cardinal fans can hope that both men have learned something from the experience. There is no room for bullheadedness in a pennant race, especially when your team is six games out of first place.

Sooners will breeze in Big 8, poll predicts

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Oklahoma, with 18 of 22 starters back from last year's tri-championship squad, is an overwhelming favorite to win the 1977 Big Eight football title in a summer poll of sportswriters and sportscasters.

The talent-heavy Sooners hauled in 131 first-place votes and 1,157.5 overall.

But that in itself is no reason for Sooner opponents to despair. Last year's overwhelming favorite, Nebraska, could do no better than a tie for fourth.

This time around the Cornhuskers are tabbed for second, with three first-place votes, 44 for second and 59 for third and 902.5 overall. Close behind is Colorado, picked to finish first by five of the writers. The Buffs received 65 votes for second and totaled 874.5 from the 144 ballots.

Kansas State, which has not won a conference game the past two seasons, obviously failed to make much of an impression with its strong '76 finish. The Wildcats were predicted on 122 ballots to again finish last.

Kansas was the only other team not receiving at least one first-place ballot, coming in a solid seventh.

If the poll is accurate, there will be a furious battle between the middle five conference clubs.

Behind Colorado, Oklahoma State was picked fourth, Missouri fifth and Iowa State sixth. The Cowboys gathered thcee first-place votes and Missouri and Iowa State one each.

Since 1946, the year the summer poll was inaugurated, the writers and broadcasters have picked 20 winners.

TENNIS

LOUISVILLE, Ky. — Hans Gildemeister of Chile unleashed a flurry of passing shots and upset fourth-seeded Wojtek Fibak of Poland 6-2, 7-6 in a second-round match in the $125,000 Louisville International Tennis Classic.
In other matches Thursday, third-seeded Dick Stockton of Carrollton, Texas ran off 10 straight games in topping Nikki Spear of Yugoslavia 6-2, 6-0; fifth-seeded Harold Solomon, who won this tournament last year, advanced with a 3-6, 6-2, 6-3 decision over Cliff Letcher and No. 7 Phil Dent of Australia defeated Van Winitsky, 6-2, 7-6.

GOLF

PHILADELPHIA — Terry Diehl clipped six strokes off par with a 65 that staked him to a one-shot lead Thursday in the first round of the $200,000 Philadelphia Golf Classic.
Diehl, 27, whose only pro victory came in his rookie season of 1974, once made birdie from a bunker and needed only 12 putts over the last 11 holes at the 6,687-yard Whitemarsh Valley Country Club course.

GENERAL

BASEBALL

ORLANDO, Fla. — New York Mets infielder Lenny Randle was fined $1,000 by a Florida Circuit Court judge for a slugging and kicking attack on former Texas Rangers Manager Frank Lucchesi.
Under an agreement reached earlier, the prosecution reduced the charge from a felony to a misdemeanor and Randle pleaded no contest.

SIMPSON STRATEGY

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — O.J. Simpson of the Buffalo Bills says he was the first running back in the National Football League to line up seven yards behind the line of scrimmage.
"I wanted more time to see what was developing ahead of me," he explained. "I sometimes make moves behind the line that help linemen with their blocks. I have always thought it's not how quick you can get to the line but how quick you can get through it."

HOCKEY MARATHON

MONTREAL (AP) — The longest game in Stanley Cup playoff history was played between the Detroit Red Wings and the now defunct Montreal Maroons on March 24-25, 1936.
It lasted 176 minutes and 30 seconds, of which 116 minutes and 30 seconds were overtime. Detroit won it, 1-0.

Urrea's five-hitter runs win streak to six games

ST. LOUIS (AP) — John Urrea can thank a bird dog south of the border for his early arrival in the major leagues.

The hard-throwing rookie spun a five-hitter Thursday night and St. Louis Cardinals Manager Vern Rapp afterward described the setting for his discovery.

"I had some earlier reports on him from a friend of mine who scouts in Mexico during the winter," said Rapp following Urrea's 3-0 taming of the Atlanta Braves.

"I had firsthand information on him before I went to spring training," added Rapp. "He eventually kind of made some eyes pop, because he did some things."

What Urrea, a native Californian, did until a week ago was fortify a St. Louis bullpen which lacked right-handers when the season opened.

But following a spectacular start in April, lapses in his form led to a propensity for yielding home runs and left him with a 2-3 record after working in 28 Cards games.

Urrea first started last week in a game against the Houston Astros, surrendering eight hits in 7 2-3 innings and leaving without a decision.

Thursday night, the tall right-hander overpowered 12 Atlanta batters before surrendering a hit and later extracted himself from a jam with the aid of a call by catcher Dave Rader.

"I think it was actually Dave's out-thinking him, because we were going in on him all night," said Urrea, who fanned Willie Montanez with a fast ball away following two leadoff Braves singles in the seventh.

"You try to keep the ball down and stay away from the long ball," added the young hurler. "You can make a mistake and get hurt."

Urrea's six-strikeout performance was supported by a St. Louis offense consisting mainly of Garry Templeton's single in the first inning and two-run triple in the fifth.

Templeton stole second, made it to third on Tony Scott's fly ball and crossed the plate on a wild pitch by Buzz Capra, 2-8, for the first run.

Four innings later, Urrea walked with two out and Lou Brock singled before Templeton slammed his 10th triple of the campaign to cap the Cards' sixth straight triumph.

Impressed by Urrea's 99-pitch shutout, Rapp said the 22-year-old hurler will remain in a St. Louis rotation of starters along with Tom Underwood, Bob Forsch, Eric Rasmussen and reactivated John Denny.

"I wanted him to be in the (National) league a while," said Rapp of his decision to delay Urrea's starting roles until mid-season. "Around the All-Star break I just figured it was time to give him the opportunity."

Time Out

Sports columnists throughout Cardinal country have had fun lately with the latest episode in the continuing feud between Al Hrabosky and Vern Rapp. Enough ink has been printed about last week's confrontation to float a small battleship. And in view of the explosiveness of the two personalities, that might be an appropriate analogy.

In case you've been out of the country for the past week, here is what transpired:

Cardinal President Gussie Busch told Hrabosky that he cold go ahead and have his Fu Manchu, since the Mad Hungarian had proclaimed to the press that his ineffectiveness this season was due to his lack of facial hair. In a prepared statement to the press distributed at a press conference last Thursday, Busch publicly embarassed M.H., made charges that he was acting childish, and told Hrabosky that if he didn't produce with the mustache, he'd look pretty silly after all the crying he'd done.

Not much more can be said about the incident than has already been written. The clearing of the air hasn't produced any immediate dividends in the way of an improved Hrabosky, but the relaxed tension is probably responible in part for the Redbirds' six-game winning streak.

You've got to like the way Mr. Busch handled the problem, though, for a couple of reasons.

Rapp probably realized that his silly grooming code was just that, especially after it had served to divide the club, rather than bring it together, as was his good intention. But stubborn man that he is (and so is Hrabosky, of course), he was too proud to admit it. Had he backed down from his high school-type edict and told Hrabosky and the rest of the Redbirds that they could have their long hair again, he would, in effect, be admitting that he was wrong in the first place. An insult to his pride.

But by revoking the rule himself, Busch saved Rapp the embarassment of having to back down. And by leaving the option open of possibly reinstating the hair rule next season if the club does not win this year, he did not give the impression that he thought the rule was a bad one. And he furthered his support of Rapp by extending his contract. The tension was broken, but neither side was humiliated in the process. Very diplomatic, that Gussie Busch.

And Busch's ultimatum to M.H. to produce or shut up might just be the kick in the behind that Hrabosky needs to motivate him to something that at least approaches his old form. He is a man who prides himself on self-motivation--motivation from the opposition (the controlled hate factor), their fans and the game situation. Now that the Redbird owner has put the monkey on Hrabosky's back, you have to add fear of failure to the reasons for motivation. Challenges have brought out the best in the Mad Hungarian in the past, and this one might just do it again.

Deep down inside, both Rapp and Hrabosky realize that they probably have made mistakes, although both are too proud to admit it publicly. Rapp's narrow-minded "I-am-the-boss-you-do-as-I-say" attitude has made communication between the players and management almost impossible. And although he didn't agree with the rule, the Mad Hungarian was wrong in making the grooming code his excuse for poor performance. The truth is that Hrabosky is not throwing as hard as he used to.

Cardinal fans can hope that both men have learned something from the experience. There is no room for bullheadedness in a pennant race, especially when your team is six games out of first place.

Sooners will breeze in Big 8, poll predicts

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Oklahoma, with 18 of 22 starters back from last year's tri-championship squad, is an overwhelming favorite to win the 1977 Big Eight football title in a summer poll of sportswriters and sportscasters.

The talent-heavy Sooners hauled in 131 first-place votes and 1,157.5 overall.

But that in itself is no reason for Sooner opponents to despair. Last year's overwhelming favorite, Nebraska, could do no better than a tie for fourth.

This time around the Cornhuskers are tabbed for second, with three first-place votes, 44 for second and 59 for third and 902.5 overall. Close behind is Colorado, picked to finish first by five of the writers. The Buffs received 65 votes for second and totaled 874.5 from the 144 ballots.

Kansas State, which has not won a conference game the past two seasons, obviously failed to make much of an impression with its strong '76 finish. The Wildcats were predicted on 122 ballots to again finish last.

Kansas was the only other team not receiving at least one first-place ballot, coming in a solid seventh.

If the poll is accurate, there will be a furious battle between the middle five conference clubs.

Behind Colorado, Oklahoma State was picked fourth, Missouri fifth and Iowa State sixth. The Cowboys gathered thcee first-place votes and Missouri and Iowa State one each.

Since 1946, the year the summer poll was inaugurated, the writers and broadcasters have picked 20 winners.

What's the law?

The case of the indignant staff

By JACK STRAUSS, LL.B.

At the rate merchandise was disappearing from his factory, Mr. Hoople decided he either had a magician working for him or a bunch of thieves. Consequently, he issued a directive requiring all of his employes to take a lie detector test with regard to the missing merchandise, and he immediately fired any employe who refused to take the test. What's more, when several of his discharged employes applied for unemployment benefits, Mr. Hoople opposed their applications in court with a vengeance.

"Employes who are pink-slipped for cause," he pointed out, "are not entitled to benefits. And," he added, "I had good cause to fire those employes. By refusing to submit to the lie detector test, they all but admitted they had been pilfering my property."

"Hogwash!" responded the employes. "We told Hopple we weren't stealing from him, and that should have been good enough for him. As for our being required to take that test, it was an insult to our honor."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you permit the indignant employes to collect unemployment benefits?

This is how the judge ruled: YES. The judge held that while Mr. Hoople had a right to fire his employes for refusing to take the lie detector test, discharging them for that reason was not good cause under the compensation law. Employes are not required to take their chances on a machine, concluded the judge, which has not proven itself accurate for court use.

Seabrook foes vow not to quit

CONCORD, N.H. (AP) — Opponents of nuclear power have vowed to "pull out all the stops" and continue their fight against the embattled Seabrook atomic plant, given new life by restoration of its construction permit.

The Atomic Safety and Licensing Appeals Board on Tuesday approved construction of the $2.4 billion oceanfront plant when it voted 2-1 to lift the suspension of building permits, effective Aug. 1.

Public Service Co. of New Hampshire, chief stockholder in the project, said it was delighted.

Frank Shants, company spokesman, said the state's largest utility won't decide when to resume construction until it has studied the decision. "Obviously it's a step in the right direction ... It's about time we started doing something about New England's energy situation."

But a spokesman for the Seacoast Anti-Pollution League, which has been fighting Seabrook before the various Nuclear Regulatory Commission agencies, said the group will continue its legal battle.

"We'll pull out all the stops," said John Parker. Calling NRC "No Real Chance," Parker said the group would appeal to the 1st U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in Boston.

'Jaws' ripoff taking a dive

Associated Press Writer

"ORCA" again demonstrates the folly of trying to copycat film hits. This heavy-handed ripoff of "Jaws" — with undertones of "Moby Dick" — drew laughter from a preview audience for the most overripe dialogue since Howard Hughes' "The Outlaw." Richard Harris plays a wild-eyed Ahab in pursuit of a vengeful killer whale, Charlotte Rampling is a marine biologist full of useful information about the species. The whale has the best scenes and manages to capture the audience's sympathy. Certainly there can be none for the makers of this soggy saga. Rated PG.

Seabrook foes vow not to quit

CONCORD, N.H. (AP) — Opponents of nuclear power have vowed to "pull out all the stops" and continue their fight against the embattled Seabrook atomic plant, given new life by restoration of its construction permit.

The Atomic Safety and Licensing Appeals Board on Tuesday approved construction of the $2.4 billion oceanfront plant when it voted 2-1 to lift the suspension of building permits, effective Aug. 1.

Public Service Co. of New Hampshire, chief stockholder in the project, said it was delighted.

Frank Shants, company spokesman, said the state's largest utility won't decide when to resume construction until it has studied the decision. "Obviously it's a step in the right direction ... It's about time we started doing something about New England's energy situation."

But a spokesman for the Seacoast Anti-Pollution League, which has been fighting Seabrook before the various Nuclear Regulatory Commission agencies, said the group will continue its legal battle.

"We'll pull out all the stops," said John Parker. Calling NRC "No Real Chance," Parker said the group would appeal to the 1st U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in Boston.

'Jaws' ripoff taking a dive

Associated Press Writer

Motion Picture Association of America (MPAA) rating definitions:

G—General audiences. All ages admitted.

PG—Parental guidance suggested. Some material may not be suitable for pre-teen-agers.

R—Restricted. Under 17 requires accompanied parent or adult guardian.

X—No one under 17 admitted. (Age limit may vary in certain areas.)

Today in U.S. history

Today is Friday, July 29, the 210th day of 1977. There are 155 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1920, air mail service opened between New York and San Francisco.

On this date —

In 1729, Carolina became a royal province of England.

In 1883, the Italian dictator, Benito Mussolini, was born in Dovia, Italy.

In 1914, a phone conversation between New York and San francisco marked the beginning of transcontinental telephone service.

In 1940, in World War II, Germany's all-out air blitz against Britain began.

In 1959, Hawaii held its first election as a state and elected the first Orientals to be seated in the U.S. Congress.

In 1973, voters in Greece endorsed the decision by their leaders to abolish the Greek monarchy and install George Papadopoulos as president.

Ten years ago: A fire killed 134 American sailors aboard the U.S. aircraft carrier Forrestal off North Vietnam.

Five years ago: Heavy fighting continued at the Citadel, a major fortress in Quang Tri, South Vietnam, as South Vietnamese forces tried to recapture the city from the Communists.

One year ago: Syria and the Palestine Liberation Organization signed an agreement in an effort to end a civil war in Lebanon.

Today's birthdays: Writer Owen Lattimore is 77. Choreographer Paul Taylor is 47. Lawyer Melvin Belli is 70.

Thought for today: Life is like a B-picture. It is that corny. If I had my life story offered to me to film, I'd turn it down. Actor Kirk Douglas, born 1918.

A school bus is being purchased, Dr. Meyer said, to provide free student transportation weekdays from 7 a.m. to 3 p.m. from University Hall to the campus. University Hall, about six blocks from the campus, is the old St. Francis Hospital building which was purchased by the regents in December. It is used primarily as a women's residence hall, but it also houses the Department of Nursing and the Chid Study Center of the Department of Home Economics.

The schedule for the bus has not been worked out, according to Dr. Meyer, but he said the route would include stops at each of the perimeter parking lots as well to pick up students who do not wish to walk.

After 3 p.m. the bus schedule will be continued, but a charge will be imposed, Dr. Meyer said.

In his report on capital improvement and renovation projects, Dr. Meyer said the University Center has been plagued by water problems since it opened, adding "The architect, general contractor and roofing contractor have essentially given up on solving the problem."

Their latest effort, according to the vice president, is a collector system "hanging between the ceiling tile and floor joists" to catch the leaking water. "Our people do not think this process will work," Dr. Meyer said, but he noted that a trial period of one year has been okayed.

If the problem is solved by the collector system, the university will pay a bout a fourth of the $2,500 installation cost, Dr. Meyer said.

The vice president told the regents that several homes which the university owns are being converted for office use by Student Development Center personnel, the Office of Continuing Education and the University of Missouri Extension Service, and College of Sciences faculty members. A swine Test Station, financed by private agricultural interests, should be completed on the University Farm by September, he said. There will be 30 pens each designed for six animals.

In other business Thursday, the board:

--approved a proposal from the Department of Art to offer a 15-hour minor in crafts.

--learned that the number of new students admitted for the fall term is up 312 over the same date a year ago.

--heard that the residence halls are full and about 250 students have asked to be put on a waiting list.

Dr. William Petrek, vice president for academic services, reported on a review of the university's faculty tenure policy. Two Faculty Senate proposals, involving both major and minor revisions in current policy, have been sent to the president. The timetable calls for the president's recommendations on the proposed changes to be sent to the regents in October with action to be taken at the November board meeting.

Dr. Meyer told the regents that national advertising announcing the university's search for a new athletic director would appear in August and that applications for the position would be accepted through Aug. 31. An appointment hopefully will be made before the end of October, he said.

Dr. Leestamper reported that reaction has been favorable to a letter he sent all students with contracts to live in campus residence halls. The letter presented his position on intervisitation in the residence halls.

It said that Southeast Missouri State's "open house" program would continue "if the individual halls or floors vote for open houses, but this program will be on a planned basis, with all students involved and under the overall coordination and supervision of university staff members."

But the president emphasized that intervisitation, in essence a policy "that authorizes closed doors while non-resident guests of the opposite sex are present," is against university policy and that he did not plan to recommend any change in that policy to the regents.

Residence hall students were given the option in the letter of being released from their housing contracts and securing off-campus non-university housing, if they could not live with the president's position.

2 more get bomb threats

Two bomb threats were called in to stores in the Kingsway Mall Thursday morning, according to the Public Safety Department.

Calls were received at TG & Y and Britts about 11:20 a.m.

The caller was apparently the same person and was said to sound like an eight to 10-year-old child.

Public Safety officers searched both stores, but did not find a bomb.

Memphis man injured

WYATT -- A Memphis man received minor injuries in a single - vehicle accident three miles east of town on Highway 60 early today, according to the highway patrol.

The accident occurred at 1:50 a.m. when Leroy Haynes Jr. 46, lost control of an eastbound van which ran off the road on a curve and traveled down an embankment before overturning.

Haynes was taken to Missouri Delta Community Hospital in Sikeston. A driving while intoxicated charge will be filed against Haynes, a spokesman for the highway patrol said today.

CLAM UP

WASHINGTON (AP) — The clam you eat in your chowder may be as old as your great-grandmother, says National Geographic. According to research findings of Dr. Ida Thompson, professor of geological and geophysical sciences at Princeton University, about 25 per cent of the clam samples are almost 100 years old.

There are thousands of species of clams, ranging from the tiny nut clam which measures 0.3 inches to the giant four-foot clam that can weigh more than 500 pounds.

Dr. Thompson's research on the ocean quahog clam is designed to establish a relationship between the growth rings on the clam's hinge plate and its age.

He is survived by a wife and four children thought to be living in Chicago, but their address is unknown. Anyone having information about how to contact his family is asked to contact Smith Funeral Home, 104 Petty St., Sikeston, telephone number 471-1403.

The body is at Smith Funeral Home, where funeral arrangements are incomplete.

Shelly faces new charges of stealing

CARUTHERSVILLE -- Former Pemiscot County Sheriff Thad Shelly appeared in Pemiscot County Magistrate Court Thursday morning on new charges of felonious stealing stemming from an incident occurring last fall before he was ousted from office.

Shelly, who now operated Pokey's Pancake Shop in Kennett, was charged this week in Pemiscot County with allegedly stealing $1,200, the amount of money he collected over a three-month period last fall from a Caruthersville bar as "garnishment" payments for the Missouri Division of Employment Security.

The payment to the Employment Security Division by the former sheriff was in the form of a check, later returned for insufficient funds according to the complaint filed by Pemiscot Prosecuting Attorney Mike Hazel.

Shelly is currently on probation from Pemiscot County for two counts of felonious stealing stemming from the theft of almost $2,000 from the county.

In April, Shelly was given two years probation by Special Circuit Judge Dorman Steelman of Emminence after pleading guilty to the felonious charges.

At the time probation was granted, Prosecuting Attorney Hazel explained he did not press for a prison sentence because doing so would make it difficult for the former sheriff to pay back more than $40,000 which he owed the county.

Earlier this year, a civil judgment was taken against Shelly, at which time he agreed to pay back the $44,611 shortage, unocovered in a state audit, in payments of $250 a month.

Prosecutor Hazel filed the lastest charge against Shelly Monday after a formal request for prosecution was made by the Caruthersville office of employment security.

The former sheriff reportedly had agreed to pay the office the $1,200 in payments of $75, but had failed to do so, resulting in the latest prosecution.

Thursday, Shelly appeared before Magistrate Sidney Chaffin at 10 a.m. for arraignment on the charge. A $1,500 bond was set Wednesday by the judge, however, Thursday Judge Chaffin agreed no bond would be required and released Shelly on his own recognizance.

The case was set for a preliminary hearing Aug. 8 to allow the defendant time to consult with his attorney, who did not appear with him today.

Last fall, Shelly was ousted from office by Circuit Judge William Ragland prior to the November general election, which he won over his Republican opponent following a heated race for the Democratic nomination in the August primary, for failure to post a $50,000 bond.

The higher bond was ordered by the Pemiscot County Court after the sheriff became delinquent in turning over fines and bond monies to the county in late summer last year.

Shelly's latest charge stems from his collection of $300 a month in August, September and October last year for a total of $1,200 from the Riverfront Bar and Grill. When the money was turned over to the employment security division, the sheriff's check was returned for alleged insufficient funds.

Shelly faces new charges of stealing

CARUTHERSVILLE -- Former Pemiscot County Sheriff Thad Shelly appeared in Pemiscot County Magistrate Court Thursday morning on new charges of felonious stealing stemming from an incident occurring last fall before he was ousted from office.

Shelly, who now operated Pokey's Pancake Shop in Kennett, was charged this week in Pemiscot County with allegedly stealing $1,200, the amount of money he collected over a three-month period last fall from a Caruthersville bar as "garnishment" payments for the Missouri Division of Employment Security.

The payment to the Employment Security Division by the former sheriff was in the form of a check, later returned for insufficient funds according to the complaint filed by Pemiscot Prosecuting Attorney Mike Hazel.

Shelly is currently on probation from Pemiscot County for two counts of felonious stealing stemming from the theft of almost $2,000 from the county.

In April, Shelly was given two years probation by Special Circuit Judge Dorman Steelman of Emminence after pleading guilty to the felonious charges.

At the time probation was granted, Prosecuting Attorney Hazel explained he did not press for a prison sentence because doing so would make it difficult for the former sheriff to pay back more than $40,000 which he owed the county.

Earlier this year, a civil judgment was taken against Shelly, at which time he agreed to pay back the $44,611 shortage, unocovered in a state audit, in payments of $250 a month.

Prosecutor Hazel filed the lastest charge against Shelly Monday after a formal request for prosecution was made by the Caruthersville office of employment security.

The former sheriff reportedly had agreed to pay the office the $1,200 in payments of $75, but had failed to do so, resulting in the latest prosecution.

Thursday, Shelly appeared before Magistrate Sidney Chaffin at 10 a.m. for arraignment on the charge. A $1,500 bond was set Wednesday by the judge, however, Thursday Judge Chaffin agreed no bond would be required and released Shelly on his own recognizance.

The case was set for a preliminary hearing Aug. 8 to allow the defendant time to consult with his attorney, who did not appear with him today.

Last fall, Shelly was ousted from office by Circuit Judge William Ragland prior to the November general election, which he won over his Republican opponent following a heated race for the Democratic nomination in the August primary, for failure to post a $50,000 bond.

The higher bond was ordered by the Pemiscot County Court after the sheriff became delinquent in turning over fines and bond monies to the county in late summer last year.

Shelly's latest charge stems from his collection of $300 a month in August, September and October last year for a total of $1,200 from the Riverfront Bar and Grill. When the money was turned over to the employment security division, the sheriff's check was returned for alleged insufficient funds.

4-County area rooted in agriculture

The four-county area of Scott, Stoddard, Mississippi and New Madrid Counties is in what is commonly called the Missouri Bootheel, a name taken from the shape of this section of the state. The Bootheel is part of the section known as southeast Missouri, an area with its origin closely tied to transportation and trade, but with its life force deeply rooted in agriculture.

Some historians feel that the Spanish explorer Hernando DeSoto visited the area in 1540, and while he did make explorations in this area, it is doubted by historians today, if he ever got as far north as the four-county area.

The first settlement in the area was founded in 1783 by the French hunters and traders Joseph and Francois L. Sieur, and was established near the present site of New Madrid. Other settlements were founded along the river, since this was the major avenue of travel and trade, and because travel in the interior was difficult.

In 1789, a road called the Kings Highway was built from Ste. Genevieve to New Madrid, and villages and settlements began to spring up along its path. This began to open up the area to more settlement and some agricultural development.

With the construction of the railroads, the four-county area began to develop rapidly, and after construction of the Little River Drainage District system, a great deal of land was made available for agriculture.

Climate in the four-county area is classified as warm and humid. The summers are hot and humid; the winters are relatively mild with several hard freezes in January and February. The average growing season exceeds 200 days, with an average annual temperature of 59 degrees. Summer temperature means are about 80 degrees, while the winter temperature means are about 35 degrees. The average annual rainfall is 47 inches, and snow is generally light and does not remain on the ground for more than a few days.

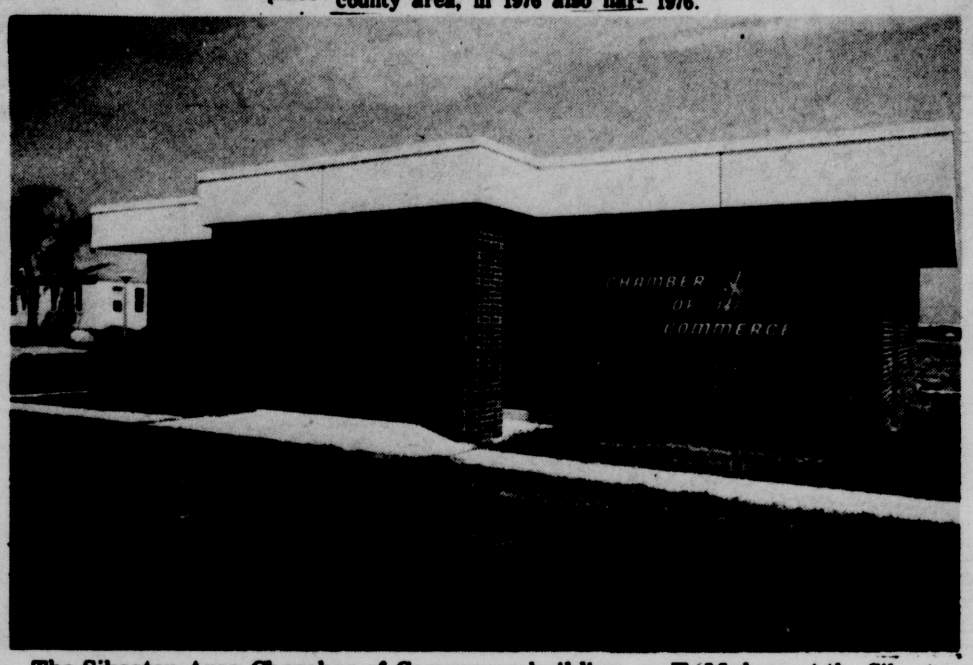
Population trends are declining in the four-county area except in Scott County, which showed a 1.2 per cent increase between the 1060 and 1970 census. Largest of the population declines took place in New Madrid County which showed a 40 per cent decline in the same period.

Industrial development is on the increase in the Missouri Bootheel, including the four-county area. There are 22 Bootheel cities with industrial sites ready for development, covering about 12,000 acres. These sites have access to airport facilities, interstate highways, railroads and port and dock facilities.

Labor in the area, according to the Bootheel Regional Planning Commission, is available and trainable, and displays a willingness to work. The area is within two hours of Memphis and St. Louis. The Bootheel region is also within a 500-mile radius, or normal overnight truck delivery, of 35 per cent of the nation's population, 34 per cent of the households, 32 per cent of the personal income, and 35 per cent of the retail sales. Second morning delivery will reach 60 percent of the nation's population. The Bootheel has been described as the place where the Midwest meets the South, and this label can be seen in the people as well as in the crops grown.

While Southeast Missouri accounts for about a third of all the soybeans grown in the state, it accounts for all of the cotton. Missouri cotton production totaled 195,000 bales in 1976, and the four-county area of the Bootheel accounted for 39 per cent of that total. The four-county area, in 1976 also harvested 19 per cent of the state's soybeans; and 17 percent of Missouri's wheat. Corn production totaled 9.3 million bushels. The area totaled about $159 million in corn, soybean and wheat production in 1976.

While livestock is not as big a row crop production in the four-county area, there are 86,800 head of cattle here this year, and there were 41,700 head of hogs in 1976.



The Sikeston Area Chamber of Commerce building, on E. Malone at the Sikeston Memorial Airport is the place to go for information about the area. Bill Wellborn is the executive director of the Chamber, and Bill Pickett is the president. The office telephone number is 471-2498.

The Sikeston City Administration Building

Sikeston-the area hub

The City of Sikeston is located in one of the most productive agricultural areas in the entire United States. To be specific, Sikeston is located at the junction of U. S. Highways 60, 61, 62 and Interstates 55 and 57. St. Louis, Missouri is 155 miles north and Memphis, Tennessee is the same distance south. It is one of the oldest cities in this section of the State

Sikeston is called the "hub" of Southeast Missouri and is known for its businesses, medical facilities, and outstanding schools.

POPULATION

Since Sikeston came into existence as a small village in 1860, there has been a steady and continuous growth. In 1874, Sikeston was incorporated as a town; in 1890 as a City of the fourth class. It is now a City of third class and is governed by a Mayor and Board of Alderman, the Mayor serves as an alderman. Sikeston ahs the City manager form of Government. Sikeston's growth has been as follows: 1880 - 191; 1890 - 636; 1900 - 1,007; 1910 - 3,327; 1920 - 3,613; 1930 - 5,676; 1940 - 7,944; 1950 - 11,640; 1960 - 13,765; 1970 - 14,699; and a current population of 15,500.

There are approximately 100,000 people living within a 25 to 30 mile radius of Sikeston.

HISTORY

The town of Sikeston was established in 1860, by John Sikes. It was located on El Camino Real, the King's Highway, which was the Overland route from New Orleans to St. Louis.

The location was chosen because it was the terminus of the Cairo and Fulton Railway, which later became a part of the St. Louis Southern and Iron Mountain Railway, and is now the Missouri Pacific.

Lumbering, farming and good railroad facilities caused the community to grow rapidly and become one of the largest shipping centers in the State. In 1887, Sikeston's first bank was founded, and still serving Sikeston and the surrounding territory, as the Bank of Sikston.

On August 8, 1874, by order of the Court of Scott County, Missouri, the town of Sikeston was incorporated. The first Board of Trustees as appointed by the Court were: E. H. Coleman, J. B. Randol, R. J. Tucker, J. C. Davis and R. G. Applegate. The first addition to the twon site of Sikeston was made on the same court day.

On August 28, 1891, the trustees ordered an election set for September 26, 1891, to determine whether or not the town of Sikeston should become a city of fourth class. The election was held and carried. W. R. Adams was Chairman of the Board of Trustees at that time. There-after, the town of Sikeston became the City of Sikeston.

The election of the first Mayor and Board of Aldermen of the City of Sikeston was held December 8, 1891. The following harris, Mayor; R. G. Applegate, John Edmondson, Frank Heister and John D. Ebert, Board of Aldermen.

The St. Louis-Memphis route of the Frisco Lines was built throught Sikeston in March, 1900.

In 1904 the Little River Drainage District was formed, which started Sikeston and the surrounding territory on the way to becoming the richest farm area in the State of Missouri. Grain, soybeans, cotton, vegetables and livestock are the principal products of the farm lands in this territory.

HEALTH FACILITIES

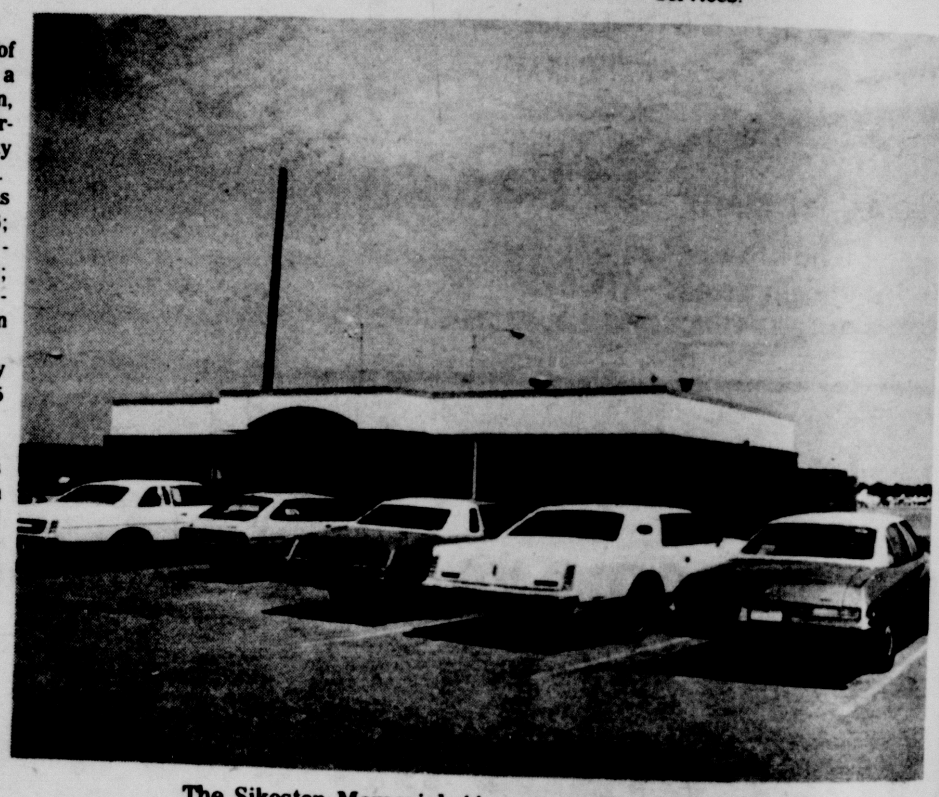
The Missouri Delta Community Hospital, with a 200-bed capacity, serves a wide area in Scott, Stoddard, Mississippi, and New Madrid Counties. The number on staff is 45. There are 105 employees, 21 doctors, 90 registered nurses and 86 practical nurses.

There is also the Ferguson Medical Group and the Medical Arts Clinic. The new Mental Retardation Clinic is in operation and also the Sikeston Convalescing Center. We have three private nursing homes in Sikeston.

TRANSPORTATION

Sikeston is served by two railroads, the Missouri Pacific and the Frisco Railroad.

Four motor freight transport companies serve the community. The municipally owned airport is located within the city limits and provides rentals, flight instructions, and charter services.



The Sikeston Memorial Airport, on E. Malone, has lighted runways, private aircraft storage available, private aircraft maintenance available, and the longest runway is 4,300 feet.

Editor's Note

This is the first attempt at a hopefully, annual Information Please Tabloid. The intent of the publication is to provide the reader with a one stop collection of fact and information about the four county area of Scott, Stoddard, Mississippi and New Madrid, and a shopping index to area merchants. While this first issue may not be as comprehensive as we would have liked it to be, it will perhaps, in addition to filling some of the need for a collection of this type information, demonstrate that the publication can be useful, not only to the reader, but to the organizations and clubs constantly seeking new members, and to others who have a message. Maybe this will encourage more to respond to the request for information for the next issue.

We hope the reader will keep the tab in mind when looking for something to buy, and for a bit of information about the area.

New Madrid County facilities

Presently, there are no hospitals located in the New Madrid County. Hospitals serving the County are located in Sikeston, 25 miles to the north of New Madrid, the county seat; and Hayti, 30 miles south of New Madrid.

There are presently two professional nursing homes in New Madrid County. One is located in Sikeston (100 beds) and the other is located in Matthews (60) beds. In addition, a 60-bed professional nursing care facility is planned for New Madrid. There are three ambulance locations in the county; New Madrid, Portageville and Parma. Also six M.D.s, two D.O.s, four DDS.s, two O.D.s, and one D.C. livei in the county.

RECREATIONAL FACILITIES

There are presently no recreation facilities in New Madrid County which are owned or managed by the county court. Within the county there are 66 acres of land in school recreation facilities and 124.62 acres of park land provided by the local city governments.

Federal and state lands provide another 32 acres of open space. The bulk of the park land is distributed among three communities, New Madrid (54 acres), Portageville (28 acres) and Matthews (15) acres. No other city has more than (10) acres of park land. Because of their size, most of these areas can be classified as mini-parks or neighborhood parks.

In addition to these developments, there is also a 60-acre golf course in New Madrid, and several acres of land are occupied by semi-private recreation areas which are primarily fishing holes.

One such area which is not a lake is approximately 20 acres on the Lyle Bird farm. This site is used as picnic grounds and by the Girld Scouts. However, this is a private site controlled by the owner. It is not a county park. Neither is the vast amount of land leased by the New Madrid County Sportsman's Club Historic and Archeological sites.

Registered historic and archeological sites are protected by federal law. There are numerous sites in New Madrid County which were the villages or burial mounds of oboriginal Americans. Presently, there are three National Register prehistoris sites in the county--Lilbourn Fortified Village Archeological site; Sikeston Fortified Village Archeological Site; and Hurrican Ridge Site. The exact locations of many such archeological sites in New Madrid County have not been discolsed, to prevent their being looted and destroyed by souvenir hunters or vandals.

Historic buildings in the county include the Robert A. Hatcher House, the Stepp House, the old Hunter Home, and the Hunter-Dawson House. All of these are located in New Madrid or in the New Madrid area.

The Hunter-Dawson House and grounds are being developed by the state as a historic site which will be open to the public. Additional sites may be added to the historic register by a county historical society, New Madrid County or any of the incorporated places in the county provided the sites are at least 50 years old. The New Madrid County Courthouse is a possible nominee.

Four County area schools

The Illmo-Scott City Reorganized School District R-1 in Scott City has a AAA rating and is a member of the North Central Association. Enrollment for the 1976-77 school year was 1240 students in grades K through 12, and there are 72 teachers on the staff. School system superintendent is J. A. Holmes, with Tom Anderson. the high school principal, and Douglas Berry the elementary principal. The school year starts in August and ends in May.

Prior to 1947, Illmo, Fornfelt each had a seperate elementary and high school, with Ancel having an elementary school. In 1947, Fornfelt and Illmo consolidated their schools to have one school system, and eight years later, Ancell also became part of the system.

In the early 1960's Fornfelt and Ancel consolidated their towns to become Scott City, and since that time the school district has been known as Illmo-Scott City.

The Scott County School District R-3 in Oran has a AA rating, and had an enrollment of 536 during the 1976-77 school year. The faculty numbers 37. The school system superintendent is M. T. Riggins, with Ernest Perkins the high school principal and Dorothy Griffin, the elementary principal.

The Scott County School District R-2 at Chaffee has a AA rating, and had an enrollment of 734 during the 1976-77 school year. There are 45 on the faculty. The school system superintendent is Howard Reed, and Clarence Wessel is the high school principal while William Bradshaw is the elementary principal.

The Scott County R-4 School District, the Kelly Schools, near Benton, has a AA rating, and has an enrollment of 846 during the 1976-77 school year. There are 52 faculty members. The school system superintendent is Forrest Jackson, and the high school principal is Dennis Holland. Elementary school principal is Mrs. Mildred Mason. The 1977-78 school year will begin Aug. 29.

The R-4 school district includes the communities of Benton, Blodgett, Commerce, Diehlstadt, Lusk Chapel and a number of non-resident students from the C-7 school district. The area was reorganized as the R-4 district in 1954, and Kelly High School was built in 1957. The school was named for a district student, Thomas W. Kelly, who lost his life in World War II. Before entering the service, Kelly had attended the University of Missouri at Rolla, and had stipulated that an award be named for his uncle, Earl Peters, and presented to a student from this high school who was eligible and was interested in engineering.

The Scott County R-5 School District, near Morley has a AA rating and had an enrollment of 711 during the 1976-77 school year. Roy W. Ragains is the superintendent while Ronald James is the high school principal and Gene R. Statler is elementary school principal. There are 45 faculty members. The school year starts in August and ends in May. The school, know as Scott Central, was first in operation as a high school in 1959, with the elementary school's first year in 1973.

The Scott County School District R-6 in Sikeston has a AAA classification and had an enrollment of 4,899 students in 1976. The faculty numbers 300. School system superintendent is Samuel Harbin, and Robert G. Miller is director of elementary education, while Roger Sherman is director of secondary education. Those on the Sikeston Board of Education are Dr. Max A. Heeb, president; David A. Bailey, vice president; Fielding Potashnick, secretary; Charles F. Simpson, treasurer; Robert Mitchell, Jr.; Phillip Barkett; Lee C. Shell; and Nora Springs. The Board meets the second Tuesday of the month at 4:30 p.m., in the administrative offices, and the public is invited to attend. The total operating budget for the 1975-76 school year was $5,326,135.00.

The Scott County C-7 School District of New Hamburg, and Kelso has a A rating, and had 145 pupils in the grades K through 8, during the 1976-77 school year. The faculty numbers eight, and the school starting date for the 1977-78 year is Aug. 29. Richard L. Eggimann is the superintendent.

The Mississippi County Reorganized School District R-2 in East Prairie has a AAA rating, and had 1745 students enrolled during the 1976-77 school year. The faculty totals 108. District superintendent is Randel Blankenship, and the High School principal is Kenneth Shields. Arlen Powell is principal at the A. L. Webb Building, while Terry W. Gibbons is principal at the A. J. Martin Elementary School, and Carl Cox is principal at the R. A. Doyle Elementary School. The fall semester begins Aug. 24.

The first school building in East Prairie was a one-room school in 1888, erected by J. W. Nelson at the instigation of a local committee. until then

BOBCAT SAVED

EMPORIUM, Pa. (AP) — Norm Erickson, Cameron County game protector, is nursing an old bobcat back to health these days.

The bobcat, the biggest he had ever seen, was found along a road, Erickson said. "It was scrawny. It was full of porcupine quills. It was so weak they were able to capture it and put it in a bag," he said.

When the bobcat was brought to him, Erickson took it to Dr. William Mitchell, a veterinarian, who, without charge, treated the animal.

The animal is coming along nicely. The game protector plans to take it into a remote area of the Cameron County mountains, and release it when it is fully recovered.

In the Fall of 1966, the New Madrid County Board of Education requested the Missouri State Department of Education to make a study to determine the feasibility of reorganizaing the nine districts of this county into a single district. This request reflected an effort to offer wider service to students of New Madrid County and at the same time to provide a tax base broad enough to support long-range educational planning. On May 4, 1967, a team from the State Department of Education made an oral report to the County Baord, the district boards, and interested citizens that reorganization was both practical and desirable.

An election was held July 9, 1968,m to merge the districts of Portageville, Parma, New Madrid, Lilbourn, Matthews, and Higgerson. The measure passed by a margin of 3 - 1, and the New Madrid County R-1 Enlarged School District was created. School board members for the new district were elected August 1, 1968.

On December 17, 1968, application was made to the Economic Development center for a selection of 17 vocational areas. ASll the courses in advanced math and science, and some English and social studies courses for upper grade students, are also held in the vocational center. The total number of students from the five high schools enrolled in classes of all kinds is approximately 600.

The vocational agriculture programs for the entire district are also held in the skills center.

The district is presently classified AA, but personnel have been employeed and courses added to qualify for AAA requirements for the 1977-78 school year.

Students will begin attendance on Monday, August 22, with school ending on May 24.

The Risco School District R-2 has a AA classification, and had an enrollment of 457 students during the 1976-77 school year. The faculty numbers 35. The superintendent of the system is Robert G. Shaw, and Charles W. Smith is the principal.

Special achievements of the school district include the recent addition of a breakfast program, and the school also participates in Title I and Migratory programs; the summer work program, (CETA); special reading classes were recently initiated in the high school; a CTA was organized last year; and the next class of seniors will be the 50th graduating class from Risco High School

According to information printed in "The Risco Student." a school newspaper published March 16, 1932, the Risco District was separated from the Parma District in 1915. At this time, there were only the first eight grades being taught.

Risco School's first teacher was Mr. Neely Miller.

The first two Risco Graduates (eight grade) were in 1916- 17 school year. They were Lora Allen and Edith Moore.

A single teacher handled the whole school until 1918-19, when a second instructor was hired. Iris Wilkey was the only Eighth Grade graduate in 1920. It was also 1920 when the original school house burned, making it necessary to house the elementary grades four through eight in a former blacksmith shop building.

In 1921 a brick building was erected (reportedly the same building which burned in 1949), and another teacher was added.

In the year of 1922-23, the Pinder, Jones, and Oak Ridge districts were consolidated with the Risco School, forming the Risco Consolidated District Number 6. Each of the ward schools, however, continued to house its own pupils. A new school, Lone Star, was added in 1924-25.

The school district purchased its first bus in 1925-26 for the purpose of transporting all students from its ward school grades seven and above, to Risco School.

In 1926-27 Risco added the eleventh grade to its high school.

The following year, 1927-28, Risco had her first high school graduation class, consisting of Frieda Smith, Amanda Troutt Schall, and Jean P. Conner.

Risco's first gymnasium, built in 1928 and bricked in 1929, has since been demolished. The first publication of a school newspaper, "The Risco Student," began in 1929.

Another bus had to be added to the school's transportation system in 1930-31.

According to the January issue of "First Bulletin Booklet", Risco Schools, 1933, Oren S. Liley was Superintendent, Earl D. Black was Principal of High School, and Don J. Brewer was Principal of Grades.

The present high school building was erected after the loss of the former building in 1949. The present gymnasium had been built in 1947. The present elementary school was erected in 1958.

A total of 1134 pupils have graduated from Risco High School. Steady progress and improvements through the ensuing years has resulted int he Risco R-2 School system recently attaining its AA classification by the State Department of Education in the 1975-76 school year. In addition, it was considered AAA in areas of administration, teaching loads, special education, and pupil personnel services, placing the school above the required specifications for AA rating.

Certain improvements in the educational program during the past few years have included the implementation of the New Madrid County Vocational-Technical School, which makes certain courses available not formerly provided to pupils locally.

The Risco R-2 staff has grown to include special teachers and programs such as: a nurse, speech therapist, learning disability teacher, remedial math instructer, remedial reading instructor, a career development center, an art department and a counselor whose goal is the help students reach their potential by helping them become aware of their abilities, interests, values, and to assist the pupil in his choice of vocations by advising on selection of calsses to help them attain their career objectives.

The Speech Correction Department was initiated in the fall of 1973. At present the program is open to pupils from Kindergarten through twelfth grades. Each student is screened for hearing and speech problems.

A full-time librarian is now employed, serving botrh high school and elementary centers, in an added attempt to meet the individualized educational needs of the students at Risco R-2 Schools.

The Immaculate Conception School of New Madrid will have Sister Joan Rost as the principal principal in the 1977-78 school year. The sister will also teach 7th and 8th grades. There will also be four other teachers at the school, to instruct the 120 pupils. Opening day for the school is scheduled for Aug. 29, with teacher orientation to be held Aug. 26. The Parochial school was started in 1916 by a Father Ryan, with 56 pupils but was closed because of a measles epidemic. In 1917, the school was reopened with 80 pupils.

The Sikeston Junior Women's Club meets the third Monday of the month, except in December, April and May, and membership is by invitation and request. The current officers are Sara Freeman, 471-7795, president; Karen Ramsey, 471-8206, vice president; Andree Schrader, 471-7260, recording secretary; Kathy Hux, 472-0424, corresponding secretary; Cathy Crouthers, 471-4407, treasurer; Becky Stallings, 471-6544, assistant treasurer; Mrs. Fred Koch, coordinator; Kathy Boyer, 471-1679, publicity agent; and Pat Hawkins, 471-6758, publicity agent.

The group serves charitable organizations, has a float in the annual Cotton Carnival, sponsors the Red Stocking Follies, and hold bake sales, candle sales, car washes and Easter Egg hunts.

3 MIDTOWNER VILLAGE

The School District of Gideon No. 37 was established in 1903 as a small one-room wooden building. The Gideon School District has never been reorganized or consolidated since it was established in 1903, a fact that the residents of Gideon are very proud of.

The entire school is situated in one location in Gideon, Mo. The elementary school includes Kindergarten through 6th grade and has an enrollment of 314 students, and has 23 teachers. Mr. James G. Shelton has been principal of the elementary school for 25 years.

The high school includes grades 7 through 12 and has an enrollment of 324 students and has 21 teachers. Mr. Dannie E. Clark is the high school principal.

The Gideon School has held the AAA Classification since 1960 and is one of the smallest AAA schools in the state.

The 1977-78 school term will begin on August 22, and the second semester will begin on January 1.

The Advance Public Schools have a AA rating with an enrollment of 637, and 40 faculty members. Floyd Liley is the school supoerintendent, and Glen Grojean is the high school principal. The school board meets the second Thursday of the month. Liley says the school has an outstanding publications department, with its yearbooks and newspaper receiving state recognition. The district was organized in 1956, and the building the high school is in goes back to 1924.

Bell City Public Schools have a AA rating with an enrollment of 430, and 24 faculty members. Thomas Yandall is the school superintendent and the school board meets the second Monday of trhe month.

Bloomfield Public Schools have a AA rating with an enrollment of 820, and 50 faculty members. Ronnie McCormick is the school superintendent, and Robert Noyes is the high school principal. The school board meets the second Monday of the month.

The Bernie Public schools have a AA rating with an enrollment of 845, and a faculty of 52. School superintendent is Elmer Dunn, and Don Lee is high school principal. The school board meets the second Monday of the month.

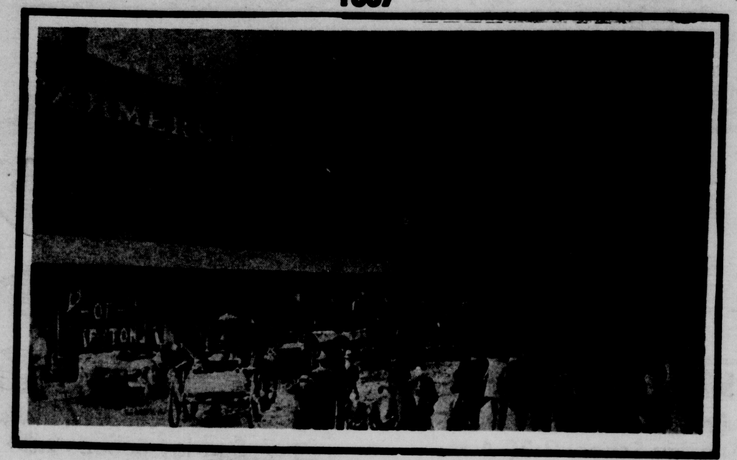
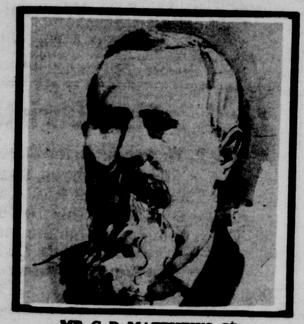
Do you remember when....

The Bank of Sikeston came to Sikeston?

1887



NORTH NEW MADRID STREET



MR. C. D. MATTHEWS, SR.
FIRST PRESIDENT, BANK OF SIKESTON

The Bank of Sikeston was established by Mr. C.D. Matthews, Sr. in 1887.

The original capital of the bank was $20,000.00

The bank was first located where the Magic Mart Store is presently doing business. The bank was in this location until 1909 at which time they moved to their new location where the Pickett's Shoe Store is now located.

The bank occupied this building for 25 years, until 1934 at which time because of its outstanding growth, built a new bank on the corner of Center and New Madrid streets.

The bank has the distinction of being the only bank to be built during the depression years in the United States. Having grown beyond expectations the bank was renovated in 1973 acquiring the Scott County Milling Company office building. This gave the bank additional space to perform its many functions.

The present capital of the bank is $1,250,000.00, having assets of over $50,000,000.00.

The Bank of Sikeston is a modern bank with the latest in equipment and banking technique, offering the best in bank services. The Midtown Facility, located at the intersection of highways 60, 61 and 62 was built to offer faster, more convenient services to our customers. We are proud to be a part of such an outstanding community, we are especially privileged to have been a part of the past and we are certainly confident of our future.

Carnival celebrates cotton harvest

World War II finally came to an end in 1945 spurring a mood of celebration throughout the country. In Sikeston during the fall of 1945 Henry Meldrum post of the American Legion decided to sponsor just such a celebration partially to relieve tension caused by the war.

At that time cotton was known as King Cotton in Southeast Missouri--the number one crop. Harvest of the crop was also a time of celebration and fall was harvest time. Thus, the festival started by the local legion post, was named Cotton Carnival.

The Sikeston Standard reported on Oct. 12, 1945, the day before the first carnival began, "The SeMo Cotton Carnival will be an annual event and its sponsors and the people of Sikeston are determined that this, their first effort, will prove a convincing demonstration of the kind of hospitality that the people of the Cotton Country are entitled to receive. The carnival is a celebration of, by and for folks of the SeMo Cotton Country."

History has proven that statement correct. As the Cotton Carnival today begins its 31st year, the people of Sikeston will once again extend their hospitality to those of surrounding towns.

Thirty-one years ago the celebration was only a one-day event. But that one day, Oct. 13, a Saturday, was full of entertainment, fun and celebration for everyone.

The amusement center was in Malone Park where there were three rides, bingo stands, games of all kinds and plenty of good things to eat. There was no professional carnival on the grounds that first year, but it didn't seem to matter. People were ready to celebrate and could make their own fun.

General chairman was Charles Butler, who also served as mayor of Sikeston.

One highlight of the day was the "mammoth parade".

Benton High School won the $25 first prize for the best decorated float.

Cotton Carnival queen contestants were judged from a reviewing platform in the park, however announcement of the winner was not made until later in the afternoon. From nine contestants, Dot Matthews of Sikeston was named queen with Betty Sizemore and Marilyn Joffie as attendants.

The afternoon program included drawings for war bonds, band concerts, pie eating contests, games and free shows.

An estimated 6,000 persons were guests of Sikeston and the American Legion post for that first annual event.

Because of the great success of the first year, legionnaires in 1946 decided to have a two-day festival. Again the event was successful and the Sikeston Standard reported, "the idea of exploiting the Bootheel Cotton Country has taken hold in every section of the area."

A large merchant's exhibition tent and bingo tent highlighted festivities of the third annual Cotton Carnival Sept. 26-27, 1947.

In 1948, the Cotton Carnival was increased by another day, making it a three-day event. Excitement was high as Thomas Taylor of Dexter won the drawing for a 1949 Tudor Ford Sedan.

The Miss Sikeston contest was added to carnival festivities in 1950 and the Cotton Carnival was moved to a new location in Legion and Railroad Parks. Willia Dean Richards was crowned the first Miss Sikeston during the sixth annual event Sept. 28-30, 1950.

The carnival was already known throughout the state, but in 1950, it received national recognition from the Mutual Broadcasting Network.

Still another beauty contest was added to Cotton Carnival activities in 1951 as 48 blond-haired youngsters vied for the crowns of King and Queen Cotton top.

Marilyn Ables and Larry Powell were named the winners.

Crowd estimates reached 25,000 at the eighth annual carnival in 1952, and again in 1953. It was reported that the 1953 carnival parade was so big that when the first elements of the parade were disbanding some units were still moving away from the starting point. More than 50 floats and decorated cars were in the parade.

In 1954, the Missouri Maid of Cotton Contest was held in Sikeston during the 10th annual American [illegible] Cotton Car-

Cotton Carnival

The Sikeston Cotton Carnival is another event that draws people from throughout the four county area. This year the Cotton Carnival with its famed parade will be held Sept. 19-23.

nival. Aletha Pitts of Sikeston received the title from 13 contestants.

Rain plagued the 11th annual event, although it was still recorded as one of the most successful in the history.

In 1956, several popular features of previous years were missing because of crack-downs by the state on all types of games of chance. But even with these restrictions, the three-day event took its place in record books as another smashing success.

The 13th annual Cotton Carnival featured the nationally famous band and crack honor guard of the 101st Airborne Division from Fort Campbell, Ky.

THE MIGHTIEST SWAT OF ALL!

Down through the years, baseball has had its heavy hitters..the sluggers who could be counted on to bring home the runs. Favorite of coaches and fans alike, these are the players who draw fans and win ball games.
Advertising has its heavy hitters too. And the mightiest swat of all is found in the smallest ads.. the Classified ads in your newspaper. The do more things for more people at lower cost than any other form of advertising.
Call on Classified when you have a communications need.. whether it's buying, selling, hiring, renting or just telling. It's a sure hit!
